WASHINGTON: Republicans answered President Johnson Thursday with their "State of the Union" program labeled "Sensible Solutions for the Seventies." They branded as "unthinkable" any U.S. retreat from the American military stand in S. Vietnam but questioned U.S. diplomacy from Asia to Europe. Here, Senate Minority leader Everett Dirksen, of Illinois, sets forth the party's foreign policy views as House Minority Leader Gerald Ford, of Michigan, who spoke on diplomatic matters, looks on. Biggest Budget Ever Will Buy More Guns Than Butter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest-ever, $135-billion, guns-and-butter budget that President Johnson will send Congress on Tuesday will buy considerably more guns than butter.

There will be no cutback from present budget spending on Johnson's "Great Society" programs of welfare, education and housing, administration officials said.

But neither will there be any more dramatic advances. A domestic demand was decreed by the White House. It was forced on the administration by the surge of military costs to an anticipated $73 billion.

Thus military costs alone will almost equal the whole federal budget at the 1953 peak of $60.5 billion, $74.1 billion. And except for the 6 per cent tax surcharge now proposed, they would leave Johnson with the biggest deficit since World War II.

By siphoning an additional $4.7 billion into the U.S. Treasury from individual and corporate incomes, the tax plan makes it possible for Johnson to forecast an $8.1-billion deficit in fiscal 1968, starting July 1, instead of a $12.8-billion gap.

Republicans have promised they'll try to avert the tax boost by cutting domestic spending instead. Johnson has tried to trim off the fat in advance.

Ky Spends Relaxing Day In Australia

SYDNEY Australia (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam spent a relaxing day in Sydney Saturday and remarked: "When I look around your harbor at people boating and swimming in the sunshine, I wish so badly it could be like this at home."

The Vietnamese leader, touring Australia to thank its people for supporting his country's war against the Communists, appeared to enjoy himself as he and his wife took a harbor cruise and inspected a guided-missile destroyer before going to an official dinner Saturday night.

"It is wonderfully peaceful," Mrs. Ky told newsmen after the two-hour boat trip with hardly an anti-Vietnam demonstrator in sight.

The dinner attended by the Kys was at Admiralty House, a government residence on a point of the harbor easily protected.

repeat a major theme of the State of the Union address Jan. 10: this is a year to digest and consolidate, not to introduce costly new proposals.

Only two sizable increases in the anti-poverty budget are foreseen:

—A so-called "Project Keep-Moving" to expand the Head Start program into the early school years.

—A job-training, job-creating plan for older slum dwellers.

Their combined cost would be about $270 million, giving the Office of Economic Opportunity a budget of about $2 billion.

Johnson also will ask Congress to put up the full $400 million it authorized last year for the "model cities" plan of slum facelifting. But an official conceded "we may get less."

The President will seek funds to spend this year and faces the prospect of being starved out of existence after July 1.

Some new money will be asked for the anti-poverty drive outlined by Johnson on Jan. 10. But the first-year costs probably would be small. They would cover mostly planning grants, to help the states and cities develop the local programs for which, later on, the government would pick up 50 to 60 per cent of the cost.

The built-in costs of on-going programs, plus the massive direct and indirect costs of Vietnam, thus are the chief villains of the anticipated $8.3-billion spending increase from fiscal 1967 to 1968.

Hanoi Claims 7 U.S. Jets Down

No Word From U.S. Sources

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A Hanoi broadcast declared seven U.S. planes were shot down over North Vietnam Saturday. If true, that would be only one shy of the record of eight lost in raids on the Hanoi area last Dec. 2. There was no confirmation in Saigon.

A Hanoi broadcast claimed seven U.S. planes were shot down over North Vietnam Saturday, but U.S. headquarters made no report immediately on any American plane losses.

Sight MIG's U.S. fliers reported "numerous MIG encounters and sightings" during raids northwest of Hanoi and in the industrial area northeast of the Communist capital. Initial reports said there were at least eight encounters, some of which involved exchanges of fire.

In declaring that seven American planes were shot down, North Vietnam's news agency implied in a broadcast that MIG fighters shared in the kills.

If Hanoi's claims are true, it would be only one short of the record eight American planes lost in raids on the Hanoi area Dec. 2.

American losses, if any, usually are not announced for 24 hours or more after the action because search-and-rescue operations are under way for downed pilots.

The Soviet-designed jets, old and new, had been staying out of the way since American fighters destroyed nine of the supersonic MIG21s in dogfights in the first week of the new year.

U.S. Lt. Gen. William Momyer, however, expressed belief in an interview that the North Vietnamese air force is "at least back up to where it was" before nine MIG21s were destroyed. That could mean a level of 75 planes. By Washington order, MIG bases near Hanoi remain off-limits to American fliers.

Need To Bomb Momyer, the top Air Force commander in Viet Nam, skirted a question as to whether he had urged bombing strikes against air bases of the enemy, but said: "To really knock his air force out, you have to knock it out on the ground."

By official American reckoning, North Vietnamese claims of planes destroyed in the air campaign above the border have always been exaggerated. The U.S. Command has announced the loss of 462 planes. Hanoi claims 1,657.

In the ground war, allied authorities reported twin blows at the Viet Cong in Saigon's environs. These helped to expand the defense perimeter around the capital.

A guerrilla supply depot only 14 miles southeast of Saigon fell in heavy shooting Friday to two helicopterborne companies of the U.S. 199th Light Infantry Brigade and supporting American and Vietnamese river craft.

The raiders counted four enemy dead and rounded up 320 suspects for questioning. They seized 10 cases of TNT and 45 tons of rice.

On the other side of town, two government paratroop battalions fought Communist detachments in the night about a mile west of Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport.

Quarter Of Red China Embroiled In Mao Rift

HONG KONG (AP) — Provincial radio broadcasts and Chinese travellers told Saturday of bloody clashes in southeast Red China and indicated the entire quarter of the country is embroiled in ferment against Mao Tse-tung.

Some accounts said Mao's picture was being torn down and defaced with obscenities. Japanese correspondents reported from Peking, however, that Mao's drive to bring down President Liu Shao-chi in the power struggle still was rolling along.

The accounts pieced together in Hong Kong indicated the southeast disorders also were aimed at Mao's closest comrade, Defense Minister Lin Biao.

"Civil War" Lin, himself, was quoted earlier in a Chinese dispatch from Peking as saying "the entire country is now in a state of civil war."

Other Japanese accounts from the Chinese capital said high-ranking navy and air force officers were being denounced as plotters. It was believed to be the first time Mao's purge has reached high-ranking air force and naval officers.

The accounts in Hong Kong, which could not be confirmed, said:

—Opposition to Mao and Lin has spread to rural areas after bloody street battles between workers and Mao's Red Guards. Ferment against Mao and Lin was reported in the Pacific seaboard provinces of Chekiang, Fukien and Kwangtung and their inland neighbors of Kiangsi and eastern Kwangsi.

—Chinese travellers report provincial officials have formed "new Red Guard units" to oppose Mao. They also report some army units are refusing to support Mao's Red Guards and some troops in the Nanchang and Canton areas are actively supporting pro-Liu forces. —Provincial radio stations still in the hands of Maoists warn of growing "white terrorism" by "reactionary and revisionist enemies" of Mao and imply provincial party officials are supporting the terrorism.

Reports of support for Liu by provincial officials do not surprise most China experts in Hong Kong — Liu appointed most of the southern provincial leaders in the years before Mao and Lin ganged up on him.

But the same experts are (Turn To Page Nine)

N. Viets Replace MIG Loss

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — American jet pilots flew through a sky full of challenging Communist MIGs Saturday to bomb bridges and other targets near the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi, U.S. military headquarters reported Sunday.

Lt. Gen. William Momyer told The Associated Press in an interview U.S. reconnaissance reports show that the North Vietnamese air force is "at least back up to where it was" before U.S. pilots shot down nine MIG21s Jan. 2 and Jan. 6. U.S. intelligence reports said the North Vietnamese had only 15 MIG21s — the best planes in Ho Chi Minh's air arm.

Momyer contended that "to really knock his air force out, you have to knock it out on the ground."

Avoids Reply

The general avoided a direct reply when asked whether he recently had urged bombing strikes against key MIG bases near Hanoi, or will do so. These bases now are off limits to U.S. bombers, by order of the highest U.S. authority.

"I periodically make my recommendations," Momyer said. "I feel I ought to say what I think about targets."

But, he stressed, he does not set the policy.

Momyer leaves Sunday for conferences in Washington and this will give him an opportunity to press the case for stripping the MIG bases of their immunity to bombing.

It is an open secret that Air Force generals here and in Washington repeatedly have argued in favor of knocking out the MIG bases. They consider it a matter of military sense to do this, even though the North Vietnamese air force has not been much of a problem so far.

Momyer said he has seen no evidence that the North Vietnamese are building their overall MIG force beyond its recent level, which intelligence officers (Turn To Page Nine)

Aerial Photos Show Civilian Bomb Damage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intelligence sources said Saturday aerial photographs show considerable damage to civilian structures as well as to military targets in some places in North Vietnam.

President Johnson's off-stated policy is to limit U.S. air strikes to military targets used by North Vietnam in its drive against South Vietnam.

The administration also acknowledges, however, that some civilians may be hit by accident or because they are in the vicinity of military targets.

Report Damage Three Americans recently in Hanoi — Harrison E. Salisbury of the New York Times, William C. Baggs of the Miami (Fla.) News and Harry S. Ashmore, a former Arkansas Gazette editor — spoke of civilian damage they saw there. They have talked with U.S. officials here during the past few days.

The U.S. sources suggested that in addition to damage in the Hanoi area that may have been caused by the Reds' own anti-aircraft and surface to air missiles, some may have resulted from accidental bombing.

Many Republicans Accept LBJ's Plans

An AP News Analysis By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of their rhetoric notwithstanding, Republican congressional leaders appear to have accepted substantial portions of President Johnson's "Great Society" program and decided to concentrate on seeking piecemeal revision rather than wholesale reversals.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford's discussion of domestic matters in the GOP's State of the Union appraisal last week used such phrases as the need for "a new direction for America" and "a program of sensible solutions for the 70s" and said administration programs "revived tired theories of the thirties."

Still A Minority But the House GOP leader from Michigan tacitly conceded two political realities — the Republicans still are a minority in Congress, and it is very difficult to repeal any welfare-type legislation once it is written into law.

Ford did this by making clear that his party has no intention of trying to abolish such Johnson-sponsored legislative programs as federal aid to education, Medicare and the anti-poverty program.

On education, for example, Ford talked about "substantial revision" and said the GOP might seek to substitute "block education grants without federal earmarking or controls."

But the present program calls for block grants to the states. It does permit the Office of Education to withhold funds where school districts refuse to guarantee nondiscriminatory practices.

Similarly, on the anti-poverty program, Ford stressed revision rather than repeal. After taking a crack at "the poverty of realistic ideas among poverty war generals and sergeants," Ford called for "total revamping and redirection of the poverty war."

But Johnson, in his state of the Union message, said he would propose "certain administrative changes suggested by the Congress as well as some that we have learned from our own trial and error."

Johnson proposed strengthening the Head Start program "by following through in the early years of school. While Ford said: "As Republicans have urged for two years, Head Start requires follow through in the early grades."

Both Johnson and Ford, as well as virtually all members of Congress, supported increased Social Security payments. Where they differ is in degree, and perhaps on methods of financing.

Johnson would raise benefits by an average of 20 per cent, which would require an increase

British Fear Domination By Yankee Dollar

LONDON (AP) — A decade ago European leftists used to shout "yanks go home!" at American troops. Today the chant is being taken up with less stridency but equal persistence by British capitalists fearful of American domination.

Orchestrating this theme of rising British economic nationalism is none other than Prime Minister Harold Wilson, and it will be music to the ears of President Charles de Gaulle of France when they meet in Paris this week to discuss Britain's entry into the Common Market.

The matter came to a head in Britain last week when the government was forced to approve an American takeover of Britain's Rootes Motors by the Chrysler Corp. That left Britain with half its auto industry under the control of Detroit's Big Three.

The British — and many Europeans aside from De Gaulle — are worried that huge U.S. companies will buy control of the science-based industries that hold the key to Europe's industrial future. Many small scientific companies are already being snapped up.

U.S. companies already control 40 per cent of Britain's petroleum, tractor and computer industries.

Wilson has spoken on the subject in strong language, bringing it up at least once a month since he first announced Britain's latest bid to enter the Common Market.

Sir Paul Chambers, head of Britain's huge Imperial chemical industries, described U.S. domination as "a menace to the whole economy of Western Europe."

British financial newspapers also have been warning of what they consider the dangers of control by U.S. capital.

GOP Leaders Pick Nixon Over Romney

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is favored over Gov. George Romney of Michigan among Republican leaders willing to take a stand on their party's 1968 presidential nomination.

But an Associated Press canvass of National Committee members and state chairmen beginning meetings here disclosed a widespread "let's wait and see" attitude pointing at this time toward a wide open nominating convention next year.

When the GOP leaders were asked to pick their first three choices for the nomination, Nixon came up with 27 firsts to Romney's 19. But 36 committee members and chairmen declined to make any choice at this point. Most of them said it's too early to take a position.

Percy Gets Votes Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois led with three first-place choices among seven others cited for the top place on the ticket.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, a potential vice-presidential candidate, got two votes each.

Others named were Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, and Gov. Claude R. Kirk Jr. of Florida. Both of the latter are potential "favorite son" candidates.

State chairmen caucused Saturday to go over plans for next year's campaign. The National Committee's executive and finance committees meet Sunday, preliminary to two days of sessions of the full committee beginning Monday.

The big question before the group will be that of convention procedure reform along the lines suggested by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who said last year the conventions "now resemble a rioting mob of juvenile delinquents."

Sees Victory National Chairman Ray C. Bliss, who arrived with predictions that a Republican will beat President Johnson next year if the party maintains unity and works hard enough, said he intends to appoint a convention site committee.

In the canvass of chairmen and committee members, Nixon turned up with strong support from Southern states, where Romney was weak.

Romney outdistanced Nixon as second choice, 12-9. Percy got six votes. Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio came up with three second-choice votes as did Hatfield, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who has said he won't try for the presidency again, was mentioned in this category along with Reagan and

Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington.

Percy topped Reagan, 10-6, in the list of third choices. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Govs. John A. Love of Colorado and John H. Chafee of Rhode Island also were mentioned.

Nixon's Southern support was epitomized by Committeeman Harry Carbaugh of Tennessee, who said Nixon is his man and "I just haven't got any second or third choice." He added he isn't "keen" on Romney and it's too early to talk about Percy.

Mrs. A. Edward Smith, Georgia committeewoman, picked Nixon, Reagan and Rhodes in that order. But State Chairman G. Paul Jones said that four years ago the early speculation had Rockefeller in the lead for the nomination "so you can see at this stage it's too early to name preferences."

Nixon's support was not confined to the South. But Romney took his measure among Eastern party officials willing to take a position.

Firing Of Kerr Sparks Battle

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Clark Kerr and Gov. Ronald Reagan disagreed sharply Saturday on who triggered the firing of Kerr as University of California president.

"The matter of a vote of confidence was brought up by Dr. Kerr, not the board," Reagan said Friday night in Los Angeles after the 14-8 vote by the Board of Regents for Kerr's immediate dismissal.

"His request came as a complete surprise to all of us," Reagan said. The governor voted with the board majority.

"The governor's statement is completely false," Kerr declared Saturday at his El Cerrito home.

"I never have asked for a vote of confidence and I didn't yesterday."

Bitterness Between Reagan, the Republican governor and Kerr was kindled during Reagan's successful campaign for the governorship.

Reagan charged that political effort supporting the Democratic incumbent, Gov. Edmund G. Brown, occurred on the nine campuses of the $7,000-student university system with Kerr's knowledge.

Their feud built up at last week's session of the regents, where Kerr opposed Reagan proposals to slash the university budget and to charge all students tuition.

Theodore Meyer, Board of Regents president, backed Kerr's denial that he had asked a confidence vote.

Meyer, who voted to dismiss Kerr, told a news conference the deposed president had not broached the subject. He said the matter was brought up by several regents.

Two other regents — Mrs. Randolph Hearst and Allen Grant of Visalia — said Kerr had forced the issue.

Regents Philip L. Boyd of Riverside and John E. Canaday of Burbank agreed with the positions of Grant and Mrs. Hearst.

Grant said Kerr had told board members, "I will not resign but I want the regents to discuss the matter of Clark Kerr."

See Ultimatum Mrs. Hearst said she regarded Kerr's request as the president's "second ultimatum" to the board and she voted against him.

She did not explain her meaning of "second ultimatum." However, Kerr did offer his resignation in March, 1965, but he and the then acting chancellor of the Berkeley campus, Martin (Turn To Page Nine)

Inter-Faith Group To Run St. Louis Univ.

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The St. Louis University president said Saturday that laymen would be given control of the Roman Catholic school's board of trustees.

The Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert, president of the university operated by the Society of Jesus, said 18 laymen of various faiths plus 10 Jesuit priests would compose the policy making board under the reorganization plan effective June 1.

Daniel L. Schaffly, former president of the St. Louis Public School Board and still a member of that board, will replace Father Reinert as chairman of the board of trustees.

Inter-Faith "We are in the process now of contacting laymen who might serve on the board," said Father Reinert. "They might be Methodist, Presbyterian or Jewish."

Schaffly is a Roman Catholic. "I will remain as president of the school," said Father Reinert. "and the institution will continue as a Roman Catholic and Jesuit university."

In April, 1876, the Jacksonville Journal advertised a liniment with some very remarkable qualities: "There is no sore it will not heal, no lameness it will not cure, no ache, no pain that affects the human body, or the body of a horse or other domestic animal, that does not yield to its magic touch."—so the advertisement read.

Ninety-one years later, your doctor is in the position to prescribe you medications which will outdo many times the magic "of the Old Mustang Liniment". The Drive In Pharmacy is one of the largest suppliers in Jacksonville of the finest medications, old and new. Its unique Drive Up Window and free pickup and delivery service adds convenience to its well known efficiency.

For medicines of any description call 245-9592 (if you want pickup and delivery at no extra charge), or bring your prescription to the Drive In Pharmacy (where parking is never a problem).

In April, 1876, the Jacksonville Journal advertised a liniment with some very remarkable qualities: "There is no sore it will not heal, no lacerations it will not cure, no ache, no pain that affects the human body, or the body of a horse or other domestic animal, that does not yield to its magic touch."—so the advertisement read.

Ninety-one years later, your doctor is in the position to prescribe you medications which will outdo many times the magic "of the Old Mustang Liniment". The Drive In Pharmacy is one of the largest suppliers in Jacksonville of the finest medications, old and new. It's unique Drive Up Window and free pickup and delivery service adds convenience to its well known efficiency.

Medicare Now Helps Infirm Convalescent After Leaving Hospital

Extended care benefits under the medicare program started for the first time on January 1, 1967. Since this is a new term to most people, it is important to explain what is provided for in nursing home services under this part of the health insurance program.

Briefly, the law provides that persons 65 and over who have been hospitalized for a least three days since the hospital insurance part of medicare began operation on July 1, may be eligible for payment of the costs of continued treatment in a skilled nursing home or other institution that qualifies for participation in medicare. Medicare can pay all the basic costs of up to 20 days in an extended care facility certified to participate in medicare, and all but $5 a day for an additional 80 days. To qualify, the person must have entered an extended care facility for continued treatment within 14 days of leaving the hospital, following his hospital stay.

Special Care

Extended care, then, under the medicare law, is a very special kind of nursing care. It is designed for the person who has recently been in a hospital—who no longer needs the total range of hospital services, but still needs full-time nursing for a few more weeks or months. It is not personal care for the relatively able-bodied in a residential old folk's home. It is not long-term custodial care for the infirm and chronically ill. Not all nursing homes will want to qualify to provide this special kind of benefit to medicare beneficiaries, because they provide mainly custodial services or residential care rather than skilled full-time nursing care.

Write Springfield

A leaflet with information for medicare beneficiaries and their families about the extended care benefits that became payable in January is now available from the social security office at 528 South Fifth Street in Springfield. Just ask for Leaflet 890. Anyone who wishes information in person may visit the Springfield office on Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. and on Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Chief Justice Roger Taney administered the oath of office to nine presidents; more than any other chief justice.

Medicare Now Helps Infirm Convalescent After Leaving Hospital

Extended care benefits under the medicare program started for the first time on January 1, 1967. Since this is a new term to most people, it is important to explain what is provided for in nursing home services under this part of the health insurance program.

Briefly, the law provides that persons 65 and over who have been hospitalized for a least three days since the hospital insurance part of medicare began operation on July 1, may be eligible for payment of the costs of continued treatment in a skilled nursing home or other institution that qualifies for participation in medicare. Medicare can pay all the basic costs of up to 20 days in an extended care facility certified to participate in medicare, and all but $5 a day for an additional 80 days. To qualify, the person must have entered an extended care facility for continued treatment within 14 days of leaving the hospital, following his hospital stay.

Special Care
Extended care, then, under the medicare law, is a very special kind of nursing care. It is designed for the person who has recently been in a hospital—who no longer needs the total range of hospital services, but still needs full-time nursing for a few more weeks or months. It is not personal care for the relatively able-bodied in a residential old folk's home. It is not long-term custodial care for the infirm and chronically ill. Not all nursing homes will want to qualify to provide this special kind of benefit to medicare beneficiaries, because they provide mainly custodial services or residential care rather than skilled full-time nursing care.

Write Springfield
A leaflet with information for medicare beneficiaries and their families about the extended care benefits that became payable in January is now available from the social security office at 528 South Fifth Street in Springfield. Just ask for Leaflet 890. Anyone who wishes information in person may visit the Springfield office on Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. and on Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The 1967 stock market rally has ended its third straight week, and Wall Street is wondering how much longer it can last.

Most well-known commentators in the street showed confidence the advance—with occasional corrections—had considerably further to run, but they conceded drastic news could modify this outlook.

The advance in the week just ended was based on about the same factors as in previous weeks. Lower interest rates and an easing of the high interest rate-tight money situation that led to the 1966 plunge were important basics in the market's further rise.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 12.03 to 847.16. Volume was 53,036,120 shares compared with 53,309,210 the previous week. Both weekly figures were close to the record 53.5 million shares made in the week ended last April 16.

Except for the first day of the week, in which stocks put on a mixed performance, the market rose every day.

Of 1,593 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,133 advanced and 362 declined.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week rose 4.7 to 314.4.

In the week, Ampex rose 4%, Studebaker 12%, Douglas Aircraft 3%, Central Data 3, Magnavox 3%, Fairchild Camera 4%, Itek 12% and High Voltage Engineering 2%.

As the week ended, the market had produced 13 clear-cut advances in 14 sessions so far in 1967.

Analysts cited a new confidence in stocks, especially since President Johnson's State of the Union address.

The feeling is the President's emphasis on easier money is much more likely to be a factor than his recommendation of a six per cent surtax on income.

The latter is regarded in the street as doubtful.

Meyerson, both withdrew their resignations after five days.

Kerr and Meyerson insisted then on orderly disciplinary procedure against three students charged with displaying placards bearing an obscene four-letter word. Some regents demanded the summary dismissal of the offending students.

The filthy speech episode came as aftermath to the tumultuous December, 1964, Free Speech Movement sit-in at Sproul Hall, campus administration center. Approximately 800 demonstrators were arrested then.

Kerr said that Meyer and Dorothy Chandler, advising him of the board's vote Friday, asked if he wanted the opportunity to resign. "I told them, no," Kerr said. "I told them I would never quit."

Pressed for elaboration on what went on at the regents meeting, Reagan advised newsmen through a spokesman Saturday that he would hold a Sacramento news conference Tuesday on the dismissal.

"The governor will have absolutely no further statement" until then the spokesman added. Shock Waves
The ouster of Kerr, head of what he called the multiversity since 1968, generated shock waves across the campuses of both the university and California state college systems.

'Long Distance Murder' -

Jacksonville Doctor Pens First Of Mystery Series

By JOHN B. MARTIN

If you happen to be a patient . . . now you know the reason for all the waiting room time. When the successful doctor suddenly gets a yen for the smell of printer's ink, immediately is barely soon enough!

Joseph J. Kozma, M.D., specialist in Internal Medicine and associated with the Jacksonville Medical Center is such a person. "Long Distance Murder" is such a book and the author listed on the cover is "Doctor Kozma."

The appetite for authorship of his first full-length novel has been whetted by the publication of several science fiction and feature articles in magazines and newspapers during the past few months.

"Long Distance Murder" is published by the Olympic Publishing Company of New York. The first copies available are unjacketed library editions, autographed and on sale at Lane's Book Store.

Generally speaking, an author from a small midwestern community who gets his book published becomes an instant best seller, locally. Everyone wants to find out what the author said about the town's leading citizens.

The book is a sophisticated account of intrigue centered around an invention and a new character in mystery-fiction, a private investigator named Sam Apostle. Sam winds his way through 247 pages in the United States and Germany, providing an international flavor.

Inspector Mullet, conscientious, somewhat boastful police officer, and Peter Pylet, Mullet's number-one suspect, carry the reader up and down the interest scale. Sam, the calm and brilliant private investigator, laces the pieces together, accented with Eva, the girl who at times exhibits shocking behavior. Sex is no stranger in the book.

The descriptions are fitting and penned in the scientific manner one might readily ascribe to a specialist in medicine. Two cases in point are the details of death by electrocution with a full-blown medical explanation of what happens to the heart muscles, plus a wet snow covering everything like "dirty old tuberculosis spit."

So what's next for the budding author? Two other books are ready for the publisher right now. One deals with WWII and the other, another Sam Apostle thriller.

Few authors of popular books emerge from the ranks of Jacksonville citizens. Dr. Kozma has also written several professional papers. Quite frankly, this is the type of book one would expect.

As far as the craftsmanship in relation to other similar mystery novels, we plead lack of proper perspective and knowledge to give a critical review. The book was interesting, although abundant in number of characters.

If one has followed the development of the Medical Center from construction to its present state of development there are few surprises to be realized. One associate, Dr. Ward Dunsteth, makes house calls in a helicopter and has his own racing car as a sideline. Dr. Kozma has won prizes in photography, art, and now has succeeded in having his novel published. The next logical step might be to suddenly learn another associate at the center has entered a six-day bicycle race and is favored to win!

On one occasion last month U.S. raiders were said to have jetted 23 bombs after they killed enemy MIG jets. The U.S. planes were armed with 750-pound bombs.

One examination of photos of the Yen Vien railroad yard, an announced military target about five miles from the center of Hanoi, is said to have shown three craters within the yard and 40 outside. About 59 civilian structures appeared to be destroyed.

Nam Dinh, another North Vietnamese city where the visiting Americans reported sizable civilian damage, is a transportation center with a railroad, a highway and river shipping.

Important Area
Targets there rated by U.S. strategists as militarily important include oil storage facilities, a rail yard, and a power plant which is close to textile mills and their workers' homes. U.S. planes have struck there more than 60 times.

One set of photos is said to have shown destruction or damage to 228 civilian and 82 military-type structures at Nam Dinh. However, they did not reveal any damage to a river dike there which is not a military target, the sources said.

Just how much loss of life results from the air attacks is not known here, but is believed by U.S. officials to be relatively small and not comparable to the heavy casualties inflicted on enemy civilians in the mass city raids of World War II.

have pegged at about 75 planes. Most are Korean War vintage MIG-17s and MIG-15s, not much of a match for U.S. fighters.

Since the air war started nearly two years ago, U.S. planes have scored 36 confirmed MIG kills. MIGs have gotten 10 U.S. planes.

The MIGs operate out of three principal bases — Phuc Yen, about 13 miles north of Hanoi; Kep, 39 miles northeast of the Communist capital; and Gia Lam, across the Red River from Hanoi and about two miles from the city.

The U.S. 7th Air Force commander said the MIG fields could be taken out with the kind of fighter-bombers now flown against targets in North Vietnam. These principally are the F-105 Thunderchief and the F-4 Phantom.

In the Ho Bo Woods of the Iron Triangle, U.S. troops pumped nauseating gas into a big tunnel complex, 25 miles northwest of Saigon, that they believe have been the headquarters for the Viet Cong's 4th Military and the springboard for many attacks on the capital.

The aim was to clear out guerrillas with whom American "tunnel rats" exchanged shots Friday in probing the first 600 yards of the tunnel.

Briefing officers told of other developments: —The U.S. destroyers Brenner and Stoddard silenced two North Vietnamese shore batteries during coastal operations in which they destroyed or damaged five Communist junk and cargo barges. The first gun duel was near Vinh, 120 miles north of the border; the second near Dong Hoi, 80 miles down the coast. The Americans suffered neither damage nor casualties.

A Communist surface to air missile that was fired at U.S. Navy fighter-bombers conked out and a Skyhawk pilot said it exploded in a populated area south of the Dong Phong Thuong railroad complex, 70 miles south of Hanoi. This bolstered a belief of American fliers that North Vietnam's antiaircraft defense is responsible for various off-target damage and casualties attributed to them.

In all U.S. squadrons flew 92 missions north of the border Friday, concentrating for the fifth straight day on railway supply lines. About 105 Navy planes hit at tracks, boxcars, a warehouse, a bridge, and gun and SAM sites in the Dong Phong Thuong area for six hours. Seven flights of Air Force F-105 Thunderchiefs chopped up tracks and damaged rolling stock in the Vu Chua yard, on the Hanoi-Peking line 43 miles northeast of Hanoi.

Similar plans have been reported under way at other Roman Catholic universities in the United States, including Fordham, Notre Dame and the Catholic University of America.

St. Louis University, with an enrollment of 11,400, was founded in 1818. It comprises 12 schools and colleges and awards PH D. degrees in 27 fields, more than any other Roman Catholic institution. The school is located in midtown St. Louis.

First place winners for Jacksonville were: Midget medley relay P. Rourke, J. Vahle, B. Linebaugh, D. Rourke; midget fly John Vahle; midget backstroke Pat Rourke; and midget free relay J. Vahle, P. Rourke, D. Rourke and J. Lukeman.

The loss leaves the locals with a 1-2 mark. They entertain Decatur Jan. 27, at 1:00.

OFFICIAL TELLS OF TIME CHANGE

The unusual finish to Friday night's game between Jacksonville and Quincy at the JHS Bowl left many of the fans from the packed house scratching their heads after the game.

Quincy threw the ball in at their end after Crimson Duane Hess tied the game at 50-50 with four seconds showing on the clock. The Blue Devils evidently called for a time out but before the timer saw the signal or heard the whistle by the official the clock had ticked off the final four seconds.

One of the officials, Lou Stickers of Carlinville, then instructed the official timer to put two seconds back on the clock, whereupon Quincy's Ron Clay hit a 45-foot desperation heave at the buzzer to give the visitors a 52-50 victory.

Most of the observers at the game somewhat agreed that perhaps the clock should have stopped before time ran out. The biggest question in the fans' minds, and perhaps several other people closer to the game, was how was Stickers able to watch the play, as he is assigned to do, and still know how much time was left on the clock, if any.

Stickers, who was working with Milt Schonebaum also of Carlinville, explained the call this way Saturday: "I heard one of the Quincy boys say they were going to call a time-out as soon as they threw the ball in, so I was looking for it. He hesitated for a split second then signaled for the time out."

"I noticed on the clock at the opposite end that there was approximately two seconds showing and the clock was still running. By the time I got to the timer's table the clock had run out. He said he could not hear the whistle, and I instructed him to put two seconds back on the clock."

"It was not a question of what I should be watching, I just happened to see the clock when I blew the whistle for the time out. It is entirely within the jurisdiction of the official to put time back on the clock. The timer did exactly what he should have, if he did not hear the whistle over the crowd noise. I was not questioning him at all."

Both officials, and many fans, agreed they had never seen a similar situation before.

The top three teams dominated with three players each on the All-PMSC Conference Tournament team as picked by the JOURNAL-COURIER sports department. Champion Triopia, runner-up Virginia and consolation winner Chandlerville each put three players on the ten-man squad.

Forward Bill Meier, center Terry Surratt and guard Jim Kleinschmidt were named from Triopia. Meier was the leading scorer in the four-day meet with 61 points.

Virginia had forward Harold Davis, guard Steve Graves and guard Ed Snow, who did not start any of the Redbirds' three games, but played an outstanding reserve role, especially in the championship game. Graves was the top scorer in the tourney with 50 points.

Chandlerville placed forwards Delbert Force and Mike Eilers and guard Dan Dearing. Force scored 55 points in the meet, Eilers 49 and Dearing 43, scoring in just two games.

Bluffs' Murray Moore, 49 points with some outstanding long-range shooting, rounded out the ten-man team.

'Cats Nip Iowa 90-88 In Final Second

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Substitute Dan Davis, taking a pass from Ron Kozelick, drilled in a last-second basket Saturday to give Northwestern a 90-88 basketball victory over Iowa and the Big Ten lead.

The shot ended a tense game in which the lead changed 20 times and the score was tied 14 times. The victory gave Northwestern a 3-0 Big Ten mark for sole possession of first place as Michigan handed Michigan State its first loss in three conference starts, 81-59.

Iowa, now 1-2, was led by junior college transfer ace Sam Williams who totaled 39 points, 19 in the last half, before fouling out with 18 seconds to play.

Williams wrestled the Big Ten scoring lead from Northwestern's Jim Burns, who managed 20 points but got only five after Northwestern had squeezed into a 41-39 margin at intermission. After the first seven minutes of the final half, Iowa four times moved ahead and seven times the score was deadlocked. Iowa finally grabbed a 63-57 edge on Williams' two free tosses and stayed on top until Mike Weaver's two charities put the Wildcats ahead at 70-69 with 8:52 left.

Four minutes later Northwestern had its biggest lead of the game, 84-73, but Williams and Gerry Jones whittled away at it and Ron Norman's basket in the final seconds tied it 88-88. Davis then pumped in the clincher.

Northeastern had four players in double figures — Burns with 20 points, Weaver and Terry Gamber each 19 and Sterling Burke with 11.

Northwestern out-rebounded the Hawkeyes 47-28. This was Southern Illinois' 11th victory against two losses. Wichita State is 7-7.

Except for the first 6½ minutes when the lead changed hands three times, the Salukis led all the way, pulling into an early 11-point lead. At halftime, Southern Illinois led 35-22. The Salukis hit 55 per cent of their shots and 79 per cent of their charity tosses. The Shockers got 42 per cent from the field and 47 per cent from the free throw line.

MacMurray's twice-beaten wrestling squad claimed the first five divisions contested and breezed to a 22-10 dual meet count over Eastern Illinois, at the Mac fieldhouse Saturday night.

Brad Ward, Ron Otto, Ken Kozelka, Tom Knight and Paul Nelson all claimed triumphs for the Highlanders, now 5-2 in duals. After Eastern took its only clear win of the evening, Jack Jepson drew with Bob Konke and Bob Kellogg earned a 2-1 decision.

123-Ward (M) d Rankin (E), 8-7; 130-Phegley (E) won on forfeit; 137-Otto (M) d Neykel (E), 3-0; 145-Kozelka (M) d Mattox (E), 6-2; 152-Knight (M) p Pleasant (E), 6-0; 160-Nelson (M) d Crail (E), 8-3; 167-Richardson (E) d Henning (M), 5-4; 177-Jepson (M) drew with Konke (E), 1-1; y-Kellogg (M) d Benjamin (E), 2-1.

Quincy Slips By Wesleyan, 88-86

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP)—Quincy College used a balanced scoring attack to offset Bill Patterson's 36 points and hand Illinois Wesleyan an 88-86 basketball defeat Saturday night.

Quincy had to rally in the final half after trailing 47-44 but went ahead to stay at 87-84. Quincy is now 11-3 for the season to Wesleyan's 9-4.

Southern Races To 77-55 Margin Over Wichita

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Southern Illinois, the nation's top-ranked small college basketball team, combined accuracy and consistency to defeat Wichita State 77-55 in a non-conference game Saturday night.

Three North Greene seniors were named to the team, Bob Crain, Guy Manning, and Marty Rhoades. The trio combined for over half of the Spartans' 226-point total for their three tourney appearances, notching 138 markers between them.

Rhoades led the Spartans with 48 points for a 16 per game average, while Manning and Crain each had 45 points for an average of 15. All were instrumental in running the fast-break North Greene attack.

Larry Ball and Rick Patterson represent Rushville on the all-tourney squad. Ball, a 6-6 senior, led all competitors in total points, with 63, and scoring average, with 21. He and Patterson, the only junior among the ten, were the heart of the Rockets attack from in close and dominated the boards.

Patterson totaled 59 points for three games to finish second in scoring and also second in average with a 19.7 effort.

Carrollton Duo Dan Howard and Dave Hindelang represent Carrollton on the top ten. Hindelang led the Hawk scoring for the tourney with 53 points, good for fourth place in the totals.

Howard, Carrollton's scoring leader for the season with 205 points in 14 games, only tallied 40 in the Winchester event, but was a key backcourt man as the Hawks upset East Pike and nearly upset camp North Greene before taking consolation honors.

Larry Evans, Winchester's all-tourney representative, might be called a second half standout as he got hot in the final periods twice to insure the Cats' win over Porta in the semis and kept them within range of Carrollton on Friday.

The 5-9 guard's total of 58 points and a 19.3 average puts him in third place in both categories for the tournament.

Mike Gronewald of Petersburg Porta and Darryl Smith of Franklin round out the All-Tournament team. Gronewald hit for 36 points in the Jays' two appearances, but was even more outstanding on defense as Porta applied early pressure in their win over Greenfield and the loss to Winchester. Smith, 6-foot forward for the Flahees, paced his team with 24 points as Franklin was upset by runnerup Rushville in first round action.

Ohio State was on top 35-25 at halftime, but the Gophers caught up and pulled away from a 56-56 tie on two field goals by Leroy Gardner and two free throws by Rich Miller.

The difference was at the free throw line as Minnesota hit on 27 of 36 tries, while Ohio State, getting only 13 chances, made eight charity tosses. Ohio State led in field goals 26-20.

Ohio State was hurt when Ron Sepic and Bill Hosket fouled out. Gardner led all scorers with 20 points. Hosket topped Ohio State with 19.

Ohio State, which beat Minnesota two weeks ago, is 1-2 in conference play and 7-5 over-all. Minnesota is 5-9 for the season.

Crimsons Capture 82-62 Win Over Wood River

Hess, Brown And Mounts Collect 62

WOOD RIVER—Jacksonville got 62 points out of its high-scoring trio of Duane Mounts, Abe Brown and Duane Hess enroute to a decisive 82-62 victory over Wood River, here Saturday night.

The Crimsons, who upped their season mark back to .500 at 7-7, led from midway through the opening eight minutes, but still had to put down a Wood River threat in the second half.

The early scoring heroics of Mounts and Brown pushed Jacksonville to a 13-point lead halfway through the second stanza and a 39-31 halftime bulge. The same two padded the difference to 14 points in the third frame after the winless (0-14) Oilers came within three points.

Shooting only 31% at intermission, the Crimsons picked up the pace in the second half and finished with a respectable 40% average. The winners grabbed off two more rebounds than the hosts, with sophomore center Mounts leading the pack.

High-Scoring Trio Mounts tossed in 23 points, ten in the first quarter, while Brown added 20 and Hess 19, 13 coming in the second half. Freshman Chad Ormiston, seeing only spot duty, reached his varsity career high with ten points.

The lead changed hands five times in the early going, with buckets by Hess and Brown giving JHS an 11-8 lead they never relinquished. Brown and Mounts continued the scoring pace and the Crimsons owned an 18-17 margin entering the second frame.

Robin Manker swished his only two buckets of the game to open the start of the second frame, and Mounts added a pair of free tosses to boost the margin to 24-17 before Wood River scored.

Jacks Pull Away After Randy Houston hit for the hosts, Jacksonville ripped off seven straight points, all by Brown, and the difference climbed to 31-19.

A late Wood River rush brought the Oilers back to within 39-31 at intermission. Wood River continued where it left off in the third chapter, with Dave Skundrik and Jim DeWorth holding hot hands and the Oilers quickly chopped the margin down to 45-42 with four minutes to play in the frame.

From there the Crimsons settled the issue with nine straight points. Brown hit twice from the outside, Hess from 20 feet and Mounts added a free one for 58-44 margin that was never threatened. The difference grew to 16 points early in the final eight minutes before the second teams finished up.

Chambersburg, Triopia Claim Grade Crowns

Triopia and Chambersburg captured respective lightweight and heavyweight championships Saturday night in the Morgan County Grade School Tournament held at Salem Lutheran.

The Triopia lightweighters sped to a 13-6 first-period lead, then settled the issue with an 18-6 domination of the third quarter for a 50-34 count over Murrayville. Chris Nerganah and Nimmie McDannald combined for 37 points for the winners, while C. Rimbey paced the losers with 13 points.

Chambersburg led 10-3 and 24-8 at the first two breaks in their 39-28 margin over Franklin. The eventual winners slipped during a 13-9 third quarter then had to hold off a Franklin surge in the closing minutes. Danny Little hit 20 points for the winners, while Jerry Johnson led the losers with 15 for the evening.

Spartans Put 3 On All Meet Picks

By Dave Ingles

Champion North Greene placed three men on the Journal-Courier All-Tournament team for the 45th running of Illinois' oldest invitational roundball tourney, the Winchester Tournament. Five days of action in the tournament came to a close Friday as the Spartans bested Rushville 83-74, to take home their second title in three years.

The runner-up Rockets and third place Carrollton each had two men on the All-Tourney squad, and Winchester, fourth-place finisher, had one man on the team. Petersburg Porta and Franklin each contributed one man to round out the ten-man team.

Three North Greene seniors were named to the team, Bob Crain, Guy Manning, and Marty Rhoades. The trio combined for over half of the Spartans' 226-point total for their three tourney appearances, notching 138 markers between them.

Rhoades led the Spartans with 48 points for a 16 per game average, while Manning and Crain each had 45 points for an average of 15. All were instrumental in running the fast-break North Greene attack.

Larry Ball and Rick Patterson represent Rushville on the all-tourney squad. Ball, a 6-6 senior, led all competitors in total points, with 63, and scoring average, with 21. He and Patterson, the only junior among the ten, were the heart of the Rockets attack from in close and dominated the boards.

Patterson totaled 59 points for three games to finish second in scoring and also second in average with a 19.7 effort.

Carrollton Duo Dan Howard and Dave Hindelang represent Carrollton on the top ten. Hindelang led the Hawk scoring for the tourney with 53 points, good for fourth place in the totals.

Howard, Carrollton's scoring leader for the season with 205 points in 14 games, only tallied 40 in the Winchester event, but was a key backcourt man as the Hawks upset East Pike and nearly upset camp North Greene before taking consolation honors.

Larry Evans, Winchester's all-tourney representative, might be called a second half standout as he got hot in the final periods twice to insure the Cats' win over Porta in the semis and kept them within range of Carrollton on Friday.

The 5-9 guard's total of 58 points and a 19.3 average puts him in third place in both categories for the tournament.

Mike Gronewald of Petersburg Porta and Darryl Smith of Franklin round out the All-Tournament team. Gronewald hit for 36 points in the Jays' two appearances, but was even more outstanding on defense as Porta applied early pressure in their win over Greenfield and the loss to Winchester. Smith, 6-foot forward for the Flahees, paced his team with 24 points as Franklin was upset by runnerup Rushville in first round action.

Who Is To Blame For 76ers' Rise?

By DAVE BURGIN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) — The people in National Basketball Association cities don't want to hear the "team effort" bit as an explanation for the Philadelphia 76ers' astounding success this season.

A team with a .900-plus winning percentage must be explained some other way. Somebody has to take the credit. There's got to be something new somewhere.

But forget any cliché or nonsense which has to do with "a coach and 10 guys working together to win, every game if we can."

That's Larry Costello's summation of why the 76ers, coached by Alex Hannum, are dwarfing the most memorable Boston Celtics' runways.

"Don't go blaming it on me," said Costello, the backcourt man now playing his 11th NBA season. "I'm only averaging about 20 minutes playing time per game. My seven or eight points hasn't given us our record."

Everywhere the 76ers go, Costello says, writers and fans want to know "the key" or "the secret." Hannum, Wilt Chamberlain, Hal Greer, Chet Walker, Billy Cunningham and the rest all know the problem.

Some of the suggestions run like this: "Cunningham has come into his own." "With Costello in there, the 76ers have a leader to run things." "Hannum can handle Chamberlain."

"Alex, what have you done to this team?" "I keep saying," Costello went on, "that it's nothing more than a few terrific basketball players doing their jobs and knowing everybody else's." "We play team offense and we play team defense. Does it really sound that silly?"

Costello is the automatic choice for those who feel a need to expose "a key." The crafty veteran, especially one who has just come out of retirement, always is. You wouldn't pick Wilt Chamberlain. He's too obvious.

"Want to hear another good one?" Costello asked, smiling. "There's a lot of spirit on this club. We've got a great coach and a good bunch of guys. Everybody gets along well together."

"If you have to blame somebody, I'd say Hannum. He's a psych artist. He's great at getting the most out of you."

"As a player, by the time you've had a couple of pro years behind you, you either know it or you don't. The technical part of pro coaching isn't all that much. You actually have to know more about basketball to coach in college or high school because you run into more situations and you have to teach."

Last year the 76ers won the regular title by one game over the Celtics, but lost to them in the playoffs.

"We might gain a small psychological advantage by winning the way we are," Costello said. "But Boston's the team to beat. They're always trouble, those guys."

And why is that? "Well . . . they play a terrific team game, too."

SPRINGFIELD — ISD built up a four-point lead at halftime then held off a late surge to record a 68-59 non-conference triumph over Springfield. The Tigers, now 3-10, played to a 15-15 first-period tie, but then surged to an 8-39 halftime lead behind four straight buckets by Steve Baker and Jesse Joyner.

The locals then padded the lead before St. James came within three points with 2:30 to play before Terry Storey connected on a three-point effort to decide the outcome.

The losers held a 29-19 rebounding edge and a 46% to 44% shooting difference.

Baker with 19, Storey with 18 and Joyner with 14 led the Tigers' balanced scoring attack.

The Bowling Scene

by Sandy Petersen

Emphasis on winning in the third week of the new bowling year continued to rate with most league-leading units last week, with eight clubs of the 19 leagues reporting gains in their respective fields.

Six other races remained even, while only four leaders lost ground. Only one league lead changed hands last week as Village Printer moved back atop the Topper League.

No new city-wide individual highs were recorded, although two new league best marks were established in the high game department.

Village Printer gained its feat via a 2-1 night, as previous single game leader Seymour Builders suffered a winless night. Third place Pecks Excavating went 1-2 to remain 1½ games back.

Gerald Lacey's 603 set and a 223 by George Manker topped all individual tallies, while 7 Up and Marks Barber Shop took the team highs with respective 3025 and 1076 counts.

The biggest gain by a league leader came in Three-Man Scratch Class action Friday where the Bowling Center topped its commanding 10 game spread to 12 via a 2-1 night.

The Fred Olsen-led Price Machinery squad provided the high totals for the week with 653 and 2312 clockings. Olsen paced all scorers with his superb 208, 208, 199, 258-941 outing.

Water's Standard, behind the hot shooting of Wanda Waters, recorded both Jacksonville Merchants' League team highs last week, only to suffer a 1-2 setback and a drop from third to fourth position.

Johnson's Color Mart moved past the 831 and 2464 shooting Waters' bunch to stand 4½ and 3½ games behind W.J.I.L. Radio and B & C Products respectively. Mrs. Waters gained the individual honors with a 207, 157, 162-526 outing.

Baker Chevrolet increased its Elks League lead to 2½ games last week by taking two of three from Olson's Cleaners, despite Olson's high game of 1061.

Blackhawk Restaurant moved into a tie for second during the action via high series of the evening-3078.

Alan Smith shot games of 211, 190 and 206 for a nifty 607, while Red Worrall topped high game on a 213.

The previous week's play saw Jim Buckley set a new league high game mark of 255.

Gerald Lacey tossed in a new 3-Man Handicap League high game — a superb 262 — last week to highlight action which saw the Bowling Center maintain its 5½ game advantage.

George Manker sparked the leaders to a 2-2 night with games of 237, 222, 191 and 210 for the week's high 860 series. Team honors went to George's Pizza on a 2227 set, and Powell's Body Shop via a 661 recording.

Olson's Cleaners (3-0) and Newman's Shoes (2-1) moved within close range of the Senior Commercial League front-runners last week, as top-rated Cock-A-Doyle took second place May's Music fell 1-2.

Olson's and May's now stand two games back, with Newman's fourth, four games off Cock-A-Doyle's pace.

Darrell Strubbe helped maneuver Newman's climb with a 212, 195, 195-602 outing, while Noel Letzke notched high game on a 235. Meadow Gold wrapped up team bests with 1075 and 3062 counts.

Three game sweeps brought C-2 and 53 into respective second and third slots in the Korlitz Womens League, while 0-1 recorded a 2-1 night to increase its spread to three games.

The 53 unit, four-games back, netted high team totals on 803 and 2400 scores. Carlene Smith and Sue Crawford topped high series and game highs with respective 509 and 182 efforts.

Dunlap Court Beverage, aided by a week high 841 game, added a game to its Queen Pin League lead last week via a 2-1 faring. Dunlap now stands two up on George's Pizza and 3½ ahead of Meadow Gold.

Florine Gregory's 526 series, gained on 190, 179 and 157 games, and a 202 effort by Norma Lowe rated individual highs. Fourth-place Plantation rolled the top set — 2355.

Birdsell Candies managed only a 2-1 night, but still moved further out ahead of the Thursday Nite Mens League field last week as the second thru fifth place units fell 1-2.

Birdsell's netted the game high with a 1060, while the George Manker-sparked Rutland quintet recorded a 3002 for high series. Manker paced all scorers with a 192, 236, 193-621 effort.

Football's Final Gasp Set Today

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Football's final gasp of the long, long 1966-67 season comes here Sunday when top stars of the National Football League collide in the 17th annual Pro Bowl game.

It will be talent for the Western Division against the Eastern — officially designated East and West — in Memorial Coliseum.

The game will be nationally televised by CBS, starting at 3:40 p. m., EST, with the greater Los Angeles area blacked out.

Sponsored by Los Angeles' two metropolitan newspapers, the affair is expected to attract 50,000 fans. The average over the years is 52,686.

It may well be the last of the Pro Bowl battles in its present format, although there has been no official decision on its fate.

Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle said here during the week that the Pro Bowl may wind up as an all-star game between the NFL and American Football League, now that the two leagues have joined forces.

Coaching the squads are George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams for the West and the Dallas Cowboys' Tom Landry for the East.

The West leads in the series, 10-6, and is a slight favorite for this one.

Frosh Duo May Press Alcindor

NEW YORK (AP)—Lew Alcindor, UCLA's super sophomore star, is the rage in college basketball these days, but waiting offstage are two freshmen who may share the headlines with him next season.

Calvin Murphy, 5-foot-11, of Niagara University, and Pete Maravich, 6-4, of Louisiana State, already are being hailed by their supporters as belonging in the same class as the agile 7-1 Alcindor.

Come December, when they will don varsity uniforms for the first time, their play is expected to restore the Purple Eagles of Buffalo, N.Y., and the Tigers of Baton Rouge to the Top Ten of the collegiate dribble sport.

Murphy, who did his high school playing at Norwalk, Conn., and Maravich, a scholastic star at Raleigh, N.C., have been scoring like mad and drawing big crowds to watch them perform. Each is a crack dribbler and passer.

A crowd of 12,342 turned out recently to watch Murphy score 32 points and hand out numerous assists to pace the Niagara frosh over the Canisius yearlings 120-85.

Maravich is the son of Press Maravich, the LSU coach, but that has nothing to do with his ability. He has been dubbed a "basketball Houdini" and the greatest player at LSU since the Bob Pettit era more than a decade ago.

Tennessee Tips Florida, 56-42

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Tennessee threw up a tight zone defense and defeated eighth-ranked Florida 56-42 Saturday night in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

The victory was the Vols' second of the week over the Gators. Tennessee whipped Florida 66-38 on its home court at Gainesville Monday night.

The lead changed hands seven times in the first seven minutes before Tennessee shot ahead to stay on a basket by captain Ron Widby.

Widby, the SEC's leading scorer with a 23.9 average, paced the Vols with 13 points, nine of which came in the first half. Three other Vols shot in double figures, with Tom Boerwinkle and Tom Hendrix getting 12 each and Bill Justus 10.

Gary Keller, Florida's leading scorer with a 15.9 average, was the only Gator in double figures, hitting for 15.

Tennessee, which led at the half 28-23, limited Florida to six field goals in the second half, the visitors going seven minutes and 20 seconds without scoring a point.

The triumph gave Tennessee a 5-1 SEC record and projected the Vols into the thick of the conference championship fight with Vanderbilt and Mississippi State. The Vols are 9-3 overall.

The loss left Florida with a 6-3 league record and dealt a stunning blow to the Gators' hopes for the conference title. Florida's season record is 11-3.

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — At halftime in the Super Bowl coach Vince Lombardi stood before the green-shirted gladiators who represented Green Bay and reminded them they had a superseding obligation.

The Packers led, 14-10, from their exertions but didn't need to be told the Kansas City Chiefs had outgained them, 181 yards to 164, and looked menacing enough to achieve an upset.

"We," said Lombardi, "are representing the whole National Football League."

The feeling really hit home to defensive tackle Henry Jordan, a veteran of 10 years in the NFL.

"It made us queasy," said Henry, in recalling the moment. "I mean guys who had played against us all these years—from teams like the Browns and the Cardinals—came up and wished us good luck before the game. It was a new experience. Lombardi had told us that before, about representing the league, but we needed a little reminder."

Henry went off singing, "We're in the money," Phil Bengtson, defensive coach of the Packers, is in his 50s and has been coaching more than a quarter of a century. At halftime, Phil was more concerned with Green Bay representing a football team. Quarterback Lenny Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs, operating from a moving pocket, had the Packers looking like befuddled ducks. "We weren't getting a real good pass rush in the first half," said Phil. "When we got at Dawson, we grabbed instead of tackled. So it resulted in a bit of uncertainty on the part of our individuals. In the second half we improved our tackling a little bit and got to the quarterback. That, basically, is what happened."

What also happened was that when Kansas City took the second half kickoff and advanced near midfield with a third down and five situation, Bengtson from the sidelines signaled a blitz by his linebackers. It was the first time they blitzed in the game. With linebackers Lee Roy Caffey and Dave Robinson, plus Jordan, putting extreme pressure on Dawson, he threw a wobbly pass that Willie Wood picked off and returned 50 yards to the four-yard line.

Elijah Pitts sliced over for a touchdown on the next play, and Green Bay had firm charge of the game. "The blitz," said Bengtson of his unit, "relaxed them and got them playing their own game and not worrying too much."

Max McGee, the 34-year-old split end of the Packers, had already told friends before the game that he was retiring after 13 years of competition. On the field before the game, Max was primarily concerned with representing himself. Max had not played much during the season. But he made a brilliant one-hand grab for one touchdown.

Max got in the game only because Boyd Dowler was hurt early in the first quarter. "You get a little spirit," said Max. "When you get to play, I didn't expect to play much and then, bam, it happened. And that makes a new man out of you, getting on that field."

Max, therefore, represented the pride that makes up a championship athlete and a championship team.

The Kansas City Chiefs, carrying the banner of the American Football League, really had nothing to be ashamed about. They were excellent for one half and obviously have good personnel. The Packers were simply superb.

"I'd say any time we lose a game by even one point," said Chief owner Lamar Hunt. "It's damaging to a team's prestige and, in this case, the league's prestige but one game such as this is not going to make or break the AFL."

Nope, it just made the individual players on the losing team $7,500 poorer. Henry Jordan of the Packers showed what the pros really represent when he contemplated the $15,000 payoff.

"I'm going to cash it all in put bills," said Henry, "and put it in the bathtub."

Dill, Michigan Tip Spartans In Big Ten 81-59

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Craig Dill played up to his 6-10 potential Saturday and Michigan handed Michigan State its first Big Ten basketball loss of the season, 81-59.

Jim Pitts, Dennis Bankey and Dennis Stewart combined to give Michigan its first Big Ten basketball victory this year.

Michigan scored eight straight points early in the first period to lead 14-7 and the Wolverines never were headed from that point on.

Dill led Michigan with 18 points. Pitts got 17 and Bankey and Stewart 13 each.

Steve Rymal and Matthew Aitch topped the Spartans with 17 points each.

HAVANA — Forman pulled away from a 32-22 halftime deadlock and went on to capture a 69-56 non-league triumph over Havana, here Saturday evening.

Parks and Stone combined for 50 of the winners' points, with 28 and 22 respectively. Ken Beatty paced the losing Ducks with 20.

WHEATON WINS WHEATON, Ill. (AP)—Wheaton thrashed North Central 121-74 Saturday night in a non-conference basketball game.

The Crusaders sped to a 60-30 halftime lead and coasted the rest of the way as John Pauchon scored 25 points and Arlyn Westergren added 22. Richard Smith topped North Central with 21.

Wheaton is now 9-5 on the season and North Central 5-5.

Parilli Leads East By West Stars 30-23

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Boston's veteran quarterback Babe Parilli came off the bench Saturday and led the East to its first ever American Football League All-Star triumph, a 30-23 victory over the West on a rain-drenched, half-flooded Oakland Coliseum field.

Parilli replaced Jack Kemp of Buffalo after the East was held scoreless in the first half and the West had a 16-0 lead.

Parilli, 36-year-old, former Kentucky star, connected for two touchdown passes, including the winner which carried 17 yards to Charley Frazier of Houston with 7:42 to go.

Parilli was voted the game's most valuable player on offense while Verlon Biggs of New York won the pressbox vote for best defense.

The second smallest All-Star crowd — 17,878 — braved a rainstorm that made a 10-yard ankle deep lagoon on the north end of the field and the remainder of the sod a mucky mess.

It was the first victory for the East in five attempts against top players from the Western Division.

The weather was the most important factor. There were nine fumbles, eight interceptions, two safeties and numerous bad snaps from center as the soggy footballs fell heavily short of their targets.

The East, down 23-2 in the third quarter, started picking off West passes and taking advantage of the elements.

Kansas City's Len Dawson went back to pass near mid-field, and the ball slipped about six inches out of his hand. Biggs picked it out of the air and ran 50 yards to a touchdown. On the next series, Clem Daniels of Oakland fumbled and Ed Cook of Miami recovered on the West 23.

Parilli then passed 19 yards to Boston teammate Gino Capelletti for 19. Then he hit Buffalo's Wray Carlton for four and the touchdown. Capelletti's conversion, his second of four, made it 23-16 with the West still leading.

The East then tied it up, also on a break. Bob Scarpito of Denver punted into the backside of teammate E.J. Holub, and the East got the ball on the West's 12.

Bobbie Burnett of Buffalo ran around end for the touchdown on the first play.

Cincinnati Slips Past Louisville

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sophomore Gordon Smith canned a 20-foot jumper with five seconds left to give the University of Cincinnati a squeaking 59-58 upset victory over second-ranked Louisville Saturday in a Missouri Valley Conference basketball game.

The loss was only the second for the highly touted Cardinals, who have now lost three games in a row to the Bearcats by two points or less. The loss was also Louisville's first in the Valley and dropped them to 4-1. They are 15-2 over-all.

The hot shooting Smith hit another short shot, a jumper from the lane with about 39 seconds left, to give the Bearcats a 57-56 lead. But then Fred Holden connected on two free throws with 14 seconds to give the Cardinals a one-point bulge.

After Cincinnati called time out, Smith arched in the big basket to give the Bearcats their third conference victory against two losses and a 12-3 season record.

The victory was a must for Cincinnati, defending Valley champions, to keep their hopes alive to repeat in the No. 1 conference position. It also threw the Missouri Valley Conference race into an open affair again.

LaRusso Draws Suspension From NBA President

NEW YORK (AP)—Rudy LaRusso of the Los Angeles Lakers, whose refusal to leave Los Angeles wiped out a three-team trade, was suspended Saturday for the second time in less than a week, this time by Commissioner Walter Kennedy of the National Basketball Association.

Kennedy suspended LaRusso pending the outcome of a hearing into the three-way deal which last Monday sent LaRusso to Detroit, Ray Scott from Detroit to Baltimore and Mel Counts from Baltimore to Los Angeles.

The hearing, scheduled for Thursday in New York, was called at the request of the Bulls and the Pistons, who charged that the Lakers have failed to fulfill their contractual obligations.

"Without the opportunity to play Louisville," he said, "we would never have the chance to beat them. Louisville, St. Louis, Texas Western, Oklahoma State, Wichita and others gave us our chance and we're grateful to those coaches who'd play us. A lot of schools wouldn't."

There is a feeling now that Southern Illinois may be headed for the tough Missouri Valley conference.

Hartman wants "to play as many of the country's outstanding teams as we can." But he's not letting SIU's success and No. 1 rating in the college division whisk him off his feet.

After the Salukis edged previously unbeaten Louisville, a buoyed fan asked Hartman if he had tried to schedule UCLA.

"If they call us, we'll jump at the chance," he said, smiling. "But if I call them, somebody better have my head examined."

CHISOX SIGN TRIO CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago White Sox Saturday announced the signing of three players including catcher J.C. Martin.

Martin, who had a .255 average, will get a full shot at the regular catching job since the Sox traded John Romano to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Also signed were relief pitcher Dennis Higgins and rookie righthander Fred Klages.

Emphasis on winning in the third week of the new bowling year continued to rate with most league-leading units last week, with eight clubs of the 19 leagues reporting gains in their respective fields.

Six other races remained even, while only four leaders lost ground. Only one league lead changed hands last week as Village Printer moved back atop the Topper League.

No new city-wide individual highs were recorded, although two new league best marks were established in the high game department.

Village Printer gained its feat via a 2-1 night, as previous single game leader Seymour Builders suffered a winless night. Third place Pecks Excavating went 1-2 to remain 1½ games back.

Gerald Lacey's 603 set and a 223 by George Manker topped all individual tallies, while 7 Up and Marks Barber Shop took the team highs with respective 3025 and 1076 counts.

The biggest gain by a league leader came in Three-Man Scratch Class action Friday where the Bowling Center topped its commanding 10 game spread to 12 via a 2-1 night.

The Fred Olsen-led Price Machinery squad provided the high totals for the week with 653 and 2312 clockings. Olsen paced all scorers with his superb 208, 208, 199, 258-941 outing.

Water's Standard, behind the hot shooting of Wanda Waters, recorded both Jacksonville Merchants' League team highs last week, only to suffer a 1-2 setback and a drop from third to fourth position.

Johnson's Color Mart moved past the 831 and 2464 shooting Waters' bunch to stand 4½ and 3½ games behind W.J.I.L. Radio and B & C Products respectively. Mrs. Waters gained the individual honors with a 207, 157, 162-526 outing.

Baker Chevrolet increased its Elks League lead to 2½ games last week by taking two of three from Olson's Cleaners, despite Olson's high game of 1061.

Blackhawk Restaurant moved into a tie for second during the action via high series of the evening-3078.

Alan Smith shot games of 211, 190 and 206 for a nifty 607, while Red Worrall topped high game on a 213.

The previous week's play saw Jim Buckley set a new league high game mark of 255.

Gerald Lacey tossed in a new 3-Man Handicap League high game — a superb 262 — last week to highlight action which saw the Bowling Center maintain its 5½ game advantage.

George Manker sparked the leaders to a 2-2 night with games of 237, 222, 191 and 210 for the week's high 860 series. Team honors went to George's Pizza on a 2227 set, and Powell's Body Shop via a 661 recording.

Olson's Cleaners (3-0) and Newman's Shoes (2-1) moved within close range of the Senior Commercial League front-runners last week, as top-rated Cock-A-Doyle took second place May's Music fell 1-2.

Olson's and May's now stand two games back, with Newman's fourth, four games off Cock-A-Doyle's pace.

Darrell Strubbe helped maneuver Newman's climb with a 212, 195, 195-602 outing, while Noel Letzke notched high game on a 235. Meadow Gold wrapped up team bests with 1075 and 3062 counts.

Three game sweeps brought C-2 and 53 into respective second and third slots in the Korlitz Womens League, while 0-1 recorded a 2-1 night to increase its spread to three games.

The 53 unit, four-games back, netted high team totals on 803 and 2400 scores. Carlene Smith and Sue Crawford topped high series and game highs with respective 509 and 182 efforts.</

Lincoln Pilgrimage Ends In Tragedy For Lisle Scouts

A Lincolnland pilgrimage for two carloads of Boy Scouts ended in tragedy when one of the cars in the convoy skidded on frosty pavement and careened over a 20-foot embankment four miles east of Jacksonville on U.S. 36-54 about 8:15 a.m. Saturday.

Two persons were killed and three injured as a result of the crash, all from Lisle, Illinois, in DuPage county.

Dead on arrival at Holy Cross hospital was the driver of the car, Gordon C. Davis, 46, of 5243 Oakview Drive, and a passenger in the auto, 14-year-old Robert Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger J. Holt, 700 Inverness Road. Keller died about 30 minutes after his arrival at Holy Cross hospital.

Two of the injured were rushed to Passavant hospital: Tom Davis, 14-year-old son of the fatally-injured driver, who is reported in critical condition; and John Gregg Walker, 14, 628 John Paul Ave., reported in satisfactory condition. Another passenger in the auto, 15-year-old Richard (Dick) Feely of 604 Gamble, is reported in satisfactory condition at Holy Cross hospital.

Skids 150 Feet
State troopers who investigated at the scene of the accident said the car driven by Davis was eastbound at the time of the accident and skidded on frosty pavement just west of Dead Man's Curve, four miles east of Jacksonville.

The driver apparently lost control on the slick pavement and ran off the north side of the highway into a deep gully. The highway was partially shaded from the early morning sun when the accident occurred.

The Davis car wreckage was scattered more than 150 feet on the north side of the highway.

Planned In The Car
Troopers called the Jacksonville Rescue Squad and a wrecker from the John Ellis garage upon arrival. The occupants were pinned inside the car which came to rest on its top in the deep ditch.

The wrecker crew quickly hooked onto the car and lifted it high enough to allow Jacksonville Firemen, members of the rescue squad, to remove the scouts and the driver. They were then rushed to both hospitals by waiting ambulances. All occupants of the auto were extracted from the demolished auto within a few minutes.

Saw It In Rear-View Mirror
The second carload of scouts from Lisle was ahead of the Davis car and was not involved in the accident. That car was driven by Dan Feely, 33, of 604 Gamble, father of one of the injured boys.

Feely told troopers at the scene that he saw the car driven by Davis run out of control and

Lincoln-Douglas Assets Up 26% Over Year Ago

The annual meeting of the shareholders of Lincoln-Douglas Savings and Loan Association was held at the office of the Association this week.

During the meeting, Bill Colburn, president of the association, reported to the stockholders on the progress and outstanding growth of Lincoln-Douglas Savings during 1966. He reported that total assets of the association had increased from $10,002,795 to $12,576,102 as of December 31, 1966, or a growth of 26% and over $2,500,000 in one year.

Total savings stood at $10,581,123 representing an increase for the year of $2,618,018 or 26% over one year ago.

This made 1966 the greatest growth year for savings since the association started into business on January 19, 1962, with assets of only $135,000, a remarkable increase when considered in light of the tight money situation during the year from coast to coast. There were also 932 new savings accounts in 1966.

Lincoln-Douglas Savings made 185 mortgage loans in the Jacksonville area during the year, totaling $2,784,196.00.

Mr. Colburn further reported that all departments of the Association set records for the year, that there is every indication 1967 will be another excellent year. He said Lincoln-Douglas Savings will continue its outstanding growth which in a period of less than five years has made it a financial institution with assets over $12,500,000, and the fastest growing savings institution in west central Illinois, and that the management and staff of the association will continue its efforts to give the people of the west central Illinois area the best in service at all times.

During the business session the following directors were re-elected to serve on the Board: Dr. E. C. Bone, B. G. Colburn, C. E. Colburn, J. R. Davidsmeyer, King V. Hostick, R. A. Sturdy and Earl R. Walters. The following officers were named by the Board: B. G. Colburn, president; R. A. Sturdy, first vice president; King V. Hostick, second vice president; J. R. Davidsmeyer, secretary-treasurer; William F. Spencer, executive vice president, and Marilyn J. Cors, assistant secretary.

Other members of the scouting party who were not involved in the accident were taken to the Donald Lowe home where they awaited the arrival of parents. They were: Don Parker, Bob Morris and David Feely, brother of one of the injured boys.

The body of Gordon C. Davis was later removed to the Toon Funeral Home at Downers Grove for services. The body of Robert Keller was removed to the Ahlgrim Funeral Home at Elmhurst for services and cremation Monday.

Other members of the scouting party who were not involved in the accident were taken to the Donald Lowe home where they awaited the arrival of parents. They were: Don Parker, Bob Morris and David Feely, brother of one of the injured boys.

COCK-A-DOODLE-DOO

A FROST-COVERED HIGHWAY turned a scouting weekend into tragedy Saturday morning as this auto skidded off the road four miles east of the city. A carload of scouts from Lisle, Illinois, were enroute to Springfield, after spending the night near Jacksonville, for a visit of several Lincolnland shrines. The driver of the auto and one of the boy scout passengers died from injuries sustained in the wreck.

Illinois Lawmakers Wade Into Education Battle This Week

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois lawmakers step this week into the embattled area of state-financed higher education, recognized as a billion-dollar problem.

The legislature will receive Gov. Otto Kerner's views on labor legislation, including his support of a minimum wage.

His aides declined to say whether he would touch on the dispute about strikes by public employees, including teachers.

Hlt Strikes
Republican majority leaders have proposed to deny pension benefits to public employees who strike. Teachers Union spokesmen responded that this was a terror tactic and said they would seek collective bargaining authority for public employees.

Kerner's reappointment of Ross V. Randolph as state public safety director is expected to come under attack in the Senate Executive Committee by Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington.

Graham has criticized Randolph's maintenance of living quarters at Menard Prison, troubled in recent years by convict and guard unrest.

A new appointee of Kerner's — Theodore A. Jones, director of revenue — will confront the committee which recommends whether the Senate should confirm appointments.

Leaders of the Republican majority in both houses will confer with Kerner Tuesday on master planning for higher education. The tentative cost for 1967-68 for building and operations has been set at $1 billion.

Among Democratic minority representatives called to the conference is Rep. Chester Wiktor, D-Chicago, chairman of Illinois School Problems Commission.

Will Decide Level
The commission meets Monday to begin determining what level of aid the state should provide to elementary and high school districts.

The present level of $330 a pupil cost the state about $589 million in 1965-67. A task force has recommended $600 a pupil.

Dr. Lyman Glenn, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, will attend the Kerner conference. Critics call him the most powerful figure in higher education in Illinois.

One subject will be whether to support the board's approval of a master plan proposal for $20 million in scholarships.

A federation of 43 private Illinois colleges and universities has questioned the need for setting up new public college facilities. The group wants the $20 million allocated for scholarships at any school in the state expanded to $35 million to encourage wider use of existing private colleges.

The Republican legislative program, announced by Sen. W. Russell Arrington, Senate majority leader, advocates expansion of scholarship and loan programs. Arrington also called for funds to construct junior colleges, and for an increase in the level of state aid per pupil for common schools.

Confer With Smith
Springfield area legislators enter the higher education controversy Monday also. They will confer with speaker Ralph Smith, R-Alton, on the master plan proposal for four new colleges. One is to be located in Springfield.

University of Illinois interest in having a hand in the new campuses was expressed over the weekend in a message by President David D. Henry. He said the university would continue seeking to be the administrative agent for one or more of the new campuses to be developed. The higher education board has rejected the concept of branch campuses.

Other legislative committees will range through these legislative proposals:

Requiring motorists to submit to drunken driving tests on the legal theory that they implied consent when they drove; paying a $3.5 million deficiency to public junior colleges; increasing state police salaries; remapping congressional districts; re-examining driver license applicants every 10 years; and denying liquor licenses to gambling stamp holders.

Joe Kingston Sings The Country Blues, But Nobody Listens

Country-Western music, with a charismatic mystic all its own, outsells Sinatra, Como and Andy Williams when they aren't singing it.

You hear it in the truck stops, the bars, army posts and prisons, and farmers have it plugged into their ears via transistor radio when they plant their corn.

It is a draw.

The Grand Ole Opry held each year at the Illinois State Fair is always the first show sold out, even before the auto races.

Nashville, Tennessee, is its mecca. The best in Country-Western is characterized by the "Nashville Sound." Maybe they can't read music, but they can pick a bluegrass banjo and a rhythm guitar like a biting sow or a kitten's purr, and their plaintive voices ring with America.

Joe hasn't got an agent. "The agents named on a list published by the Musician's Union seem to be quacks. They'll steal your material and over-impress you with what they'll do for you when they know they don't have the connections to do any good."

But Joe has had some success. One of his songs, "Bringin' Mary Home," has been recorded by six artists on three singles and in three albums. Some of the better known in the country music field who recorded it are Mac Wiseman and the Willis Brothers, both in the Country Music Hall of Fame, and the Country Gentlemen and Frankie Miller.

Author of hundreds of songs, this one was Joe's first financial success, but it didn't bring him riches.

"I learned something about records, and that is how little you make. I still get royalty checks regularly, but I've made very little. I get a statement the record sold about 1,000 in an area and I get a check for $3 or $4."

His success has come in the last year and a half, but during this time he has been married, had a child, bought into an insurance agency in Jacksonville, and bought a home. He hasn't had time to promote more songs.

But Joe is not giving up. While he devotes more and more time to insurance agencies in Franklin and Jacksonville, he is still writing and still pushing, and he is convinced someday his music will make him rich.

Until that grand day materializes, Joe is singing:

"I have been hesitating" Hopin' someday you'd see I've been standin' here waitin' For you to notice me."

"Here I Am" by Joe Kingston

But it is a tough racket to break into.

It is a tight market.

Ask Joe Kingston, 35, of rural route one, Franklin, who has been writing, playing and singing country since he was 15.

"Nashville is a sewed-up market. I don't think the people who own it want outsiders in. The insincerity and clannishness of the people in control, and the monopoly they hold, is undemocratic."

"This is probably true in other lines of business too, but a lawyer, if he doesn't make it in one city, he can go to another one. But I don't know where you go from Nashville. They're king and the king rules."

Joe said he saw good singers go almost unnoticed at the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville because they weren't paying the Master of Ceremonies to urge the crowd on with enthusiastic arm motions.

Kingston has sent songs to Hank Snow, Gene Autry, Webb Pierce, Cowboy Copas and others, without results. Hank Snow sent him a contract, but hasn't recorded the song. Copas was ready to do one when he was killed in an airplane crash, Joe says.

"I've written to many more, but I haven't sent many tapes because 90 per cent of them are pitched without being opened, and I can realize why. These singers are flooded with material."

Taken to Passavant hospital in a police car was Richard W. Towers, 32, of 403 Gladstone, and 19-year-old Marsha A. Casson of Route 1, Alexander. Both were treated and later released.

State police said the Casson car was westbound and skidded on the frost-covered pavement, sideswiping the eastbound Towers auto. The Towers car was off the north side of the highway, down the embankment and overturned on its top.

Both cars had to be towed away. Miss Casson was ticketed for driving too fast for conditions.

CAR-TRUCK CRASH CAUSES INJURY
A Jacksonville woman was taken to Holy Cross hospital following a car-truck accident at the intersection of Westgate and West Morton Road shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night.

Mrs. Margaretta Summers of 633 Henry Street was the driver of the car involved in the collision. She was not believed to be seriously injured.

Mrs. Summers was headed east on West Morton Road and attempted to make a left turn just as a large tractor-trailer truck started to pass. The truck was driven by Oris M. Brown of Summit, Illinois, and the truck is owned by Orscheln Brothers.

Both the car and truck skidded into a ditch on the north side of the highway near a supermarket driveway. The car was towed from the scene with heavy damage to the left side. The truck was driven from the scene with minor damage to the right side.

City police and state troopers handled traffic at the accident scene.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The 1967 stock market rally has ended its third straight week, and Wall Street is wondering how much longer it can last.

Most well-known commentators in the street showed confidence the advance—with occasional corrections—had considerably further to run, but they conceded drastic news could modify this outlook.

The advance in the week just ended was based on about the same factors as in previous weeks. Lower interest rates and an easing of the high interest rate-tight money situation that led to the 1966 plunge were important basics in the market's further rise.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 12.03 to 847.16. Volume was 53,036,120 shares compared with 53,369,210 the previous week. Both weekly figures were close to the record 53.5 million shares made in the week ended last April 16.

Except for the first day of the week, in which stocks put on a mixed performance, the market rose every day.

Of 1,589 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 1,133 advanced and 362 declined.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week rose 4.7 to 314.4.

In the week, Ampex rose 4 1/2, Studebaker 12 1/4, Douglas Aircraft 3 3/4, Central Data 3, Magnavox 3 1/2, Fairchild Camera 4 1/2, Itek 12 3/4 and High Voltage Engineering 2 1/2.

As the week ended, the market had produced 13 clear-cut advances in 14 sessions so far in 1967.

Analysts cited a new confidence in stocks, especially since President Johnson's State of the Union address.

The feeling is the President's emphasis on easier money is much more likely to be a factor than his recommendation of a six per cent surtax on income. The latter is regarded in the street as doubtful.

Meyerson, both withdrew their resignations after five days.

Kerr and Meyerson insisted then on orderly disciplinary procedure against three students charged with displaying placards bearing an obscene four-letter word. Some regents demanded the summary dismissal of the offending students.

The filthy speech episode came as aftermath to the tumultuous December, 1964, Free Speech Movement sit-in at Sproul Hall, campus administration center. Approximately 800 demonstrators were arrested then.

Kerr said that Meyer and Dorothy Chandler, advising him of the board's vote Friday, asked if he wanted the opportunity to resign. "I told them, no," Kerr said. "I told them I would never resign."

Pressed for elaboration on what went on at the regents' meeting, Reagan advised newsmen through a spokesman Saturday that he would hold a Sacramento news conference Tuesday on the dismissal.

"The governor will have absolutely no further statement" until then the spokesman added.

'Long Distance Murder'—

Jacksonville Doctor Pens First Of Mystery Series

By JOHN B. MARTIN

If you happen to be a patient . . . now you know the reason for all the waiting room time. When the successful doctor suddenly gets a yen for the smell of printer's ink, immediately is barely soon enough!

Joseph J. Kozma, M.D., specialist in Internal Medicine and associated with the Jacksonville Medical Center is such a person. "Long Distance Murder" is such a book and the author listed on the cover is "Doctor Kozma."

The appetite for authorship of his first full-length novel has been whetted by the publication of several science fiction and feature articles in magazines and newspapers during the past few months.

"Long Distance Murder" is published by the Olympic Publishing Company of New York. The first copies available are unjacketed library editions, autographed and on sale at Lane's Book Store.

Generally speaking, an author from a small midwestern community who gets his book published becomes an instant best seller, locally. Everyone wants to find out what the author said about the town's leading citizens.

The book is a sophisticated account of intrigue centered around an invention and a new character in mystery-fiction, a private investigator named Sam Apostle. Sam winds his way through 247 pages in the United States and Germany, providing an international flavor.

Inspector Mullet, conscientious, somewhat boastful police officer, and Peter Pylet, Mullet's number-one suspect, carry the reader up and down the interest scale. Sam, the calm and brilliant private investigator, laces the pieces together, accented with Eva, the girl who at times exhibits shocking behavior. Sex is no stranger in the book.

The descriptions are fitting and penned in the scientific manner one might readily ascribe to a specialist in medicine. Two cases in point are the details of death by electrocution with a full-blown medical explanation of what happens to the heart muscles, plus a wet snow covering everything like "dirty old tuberculosis spit."

So what's next for the budding author? Two other books are ready for the publisher right now. One deals with WWII and the other, another Sam Apostle thriller.

Few authors of popular books emerge from the ranks of Jacksonville citizens. Dr. Kozma has also written several professional papers. Quite frankly, this is the type of book one would expect.

As far as the craftsmanship in relation to other similar mystery novels, we plead lack of proper perspective and knowledge to give a critical review. The book was interesting, although abundant in number of characters.

If one has followed the development of the Medical Center from construction to its present state of development there are few surprises to be realized. One associate, Dr. Ward Dunsteth, makes house calls in a helicopter and has his own racing car as a sideline. Dr. Kozma has won prizes in photography, art, and now has succeeded in having his novel published. The next logical step might be to suddenly learn another associate at the center has entered a six-day bicycle race and is favored to win!

'Oomph Girl', Ann Sheridan, Dies Of Cancer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Actress Ann Sheridan, once billed as "the Oomph Girl," died Saturday of cancer in her San Fernando Valley home, friends reported.

Miss Sheridan, who would have been 52 on Feb. 21, had recently returned to the limelight as star of the television series, "Pistols 'n' Petticoats" on CBS.

She was born Feb. 21, 1915, in Dallas, Tex. Her family moved to Denton, Tex., where she attended Robert E. Lee Grammar School and Denton High, then studied at North Texas State Teachers College.

Her sister submitted Miss Sheridan's photograph in a "search for beauty" contest, conducted by Paramount Studios, and the Texas girl won a contract in 1933.

Her career didn't move forward until she switched to Warner Bros., where a zealous press agent dubbed her "the Oomph Girl."

She long resented the title because, as she once put it, "it sounds like a man stooping over in a telephone booth."

On one occasion last month U.S. raiders were said to have jettisoned 23 bombs after they sighted enemy MIG jets. The U.S. planes were armed with 750-pound bombs.

One examination of photos of the Yen Vien railroad yard, an announced military target about five miles from the center of Hanoi, is said to have shown three craters within the yard and 40 outside. About 59 civilian structures appeared to be destroyed.

Nam Dinh, another North Vietnamese city where the visiting Americans reported sizable civilian damage, is a transportation center with a railroad, a highway and river shipping.

Important Area
Targets there rated by U.S. strategists as militarily important include oil storage facilities, a rail yard, and a power plant which is close to textile mills and their workers' homes. U.S. planes have struck there more than 60 times.

One set of photos is said to have shown destruction or damage to 228 civilian and 82 military-type structures at Nam Dinh. However, they did not reveal any damage to a river dike there which is not a military target, the sources said.

Just how much loss of life results from the air attacks is not known here, but is believed by U.S. officials to be relatively small and not comparable to the heavy casualties inflicted on enemy civilians in the mass city raids of World War II.

N. Viets

have pegged at about 75 planes. Most are Korean War vintage MIG17s and MIG15s, not much of a match for U.S. fighters.

26 To 10
Since the air war started nearly two years ago, U.S. planes have scored 36 confirmed MIG kills. MIGs have gotten 10 U.S. planes.

The MIGs operate out of three principal bases — Phuc Yen, about 13 miles north of Hanoi; Kep, 39 miles northeast of the Communist capital; and Gia Lam, across the Red River from Hanoi and about two miles from the city.

The U.S. 7th Air Force commander said the MIG fields could be taken out with the kind of fighter-bombers now flown against targets in North Vietnam. These principally are the F105 Thunderchief and the F4 Phantom.

In the Ho Bo Woods of the Iron Triangle, U.S. troops pumped nauseating gas into a big tunnel complex, 25 miles northwest of Saigon, that they believe to have been the headquarters for the Viet Cong's 4th Military and the springing board for many attacks on the capital.

The aim was to clear out guerrillas with whom American "tunnel rats" exchanged shots Friday in probing the first 600 yards of the tunnel.

Briefing officers told of other developments:
—The U.S. destroyers Brenner and Stoddard silenced two of North Vietnam's shore batteries during coastal operations in which they destroyed or damaged five Communist junks and cargo barges. The first gun duel was near Vinh, 120 miles north of the border; the second near Dong Hoi, 80 miles down the coast. The Americans suffered neither damage nor casualties.

—A Communist surface to air missile that was fired at U.S. Navy fighter-bombers conked out and a Skyhawk pilot said it exploded in a populated area south of the Dong Phong Thuong railroad complex, 70 miles south of Hanoi. This bolstered a belief of American flyers that North Vietnam's anti-aircraft defense is responsible for various off-target damage and casualties attributed to them.

—In all U.S. squadrons flew 92 missions north of the border Friday, concentrating for the fifth straight day on railway supply lines. About 105 Navy planes hit at tracks, boxcars, a warehouse, a bridge, and gun and SAM sites in the Dong Phong Thuong area for six hours. Seven flights of Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs chopped up tracks and damaged rolling stock in the Vu Chua yard on the Hanoi-Peking line 43 miles northeast of Hanoi.

Problems Aboard Spaceship Earth

The space age has made us conscious of the fact that we are all astronauts, whether we want to be or not.

The earth itself is a great space vehicle tracing a regular orbit about the sun, while the sun follows an even vaster course through the galaxy. Our ship has a limited amount of room, a limited amount of air, water, land and other essentials to life.

One of the most challenging problems that will be encountered in long voyages in manmade spaceships is how to convert waste products back into usable form. The identical problem is beginning to confront earth-bound man as his ship gets more crowded.

The trouble is we have never been called upon to think about it before. We are accustomed to just throwing things away and letting nature take its course. But nature is slow and has a limited capacity for absorbing man's waste products. The consequence is the increasing pollution and unsightliness of our environment.

The solution, says one scientist, is "total recycling."

This is already being done to a limited extent, notes Dr. Athelstan Spilhaus, director of the University of Minnesota Institute of Technology. Iron ore dust is being recycled back into steel mills; some cities are converting garbage into fertilizer.

But we have yet to apply the principle to things like stoves, refrigerators, washing machines, automobiles — the stuff we "consume" and then, shortly after paying off the bank loan, dispose of as junk.

"Junk is a word that epitomizes the immorality and ignorance of not recycling," Spilhaus told a symposium on "Preserving the Environment" held at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Washington, D.C.

"The automobile is the most conspicuous example. It should be designed at the start with its eventual reclamation in mind."

The idea is not conservation. There is no present danger of our running out of raw materials or of the ability to devise substitutes for them.

The idea is to save "the one natural resource that we cannot reinvent once we destroy it, and that is our natural environment."

The immediate danger may be more psychological than it is physical. "Filthy environments," says Spilhaus, "may drive us nuts before they make us physically sick."

No spaceship crew of the future would last long if it tolerated a dirty ship. The same thing, we are beginning to realize, applies to the human race and spaceship earth.

Direct Popular Vote

As the 25th Amendment regulating presidential succession enters the last lap toward formal approval, another dealing with presidential election appears about to start its course through Congress and the states. A special commission of the American Bar Association has proposed abolishing the electoral college and amending the Constitution to provide for direct popular election of the president and vice president. There is a fair chance that, under this new impetus, Congress will enact such an amendment and send it to the states for ratification.

The electoral college system is in growing disfavor among political scientists and other observers. For years there has been a rising interest in at least modifying this odd institution to make it more responsive to the popular will. Junking the electoral college entirely, and thenceforth filling the two top national offices by direct vote, is arguably the best way to deal with the problem.

Historically there has been one strong argument against popular election of the president and vice president. This is that popular choice might weaken the two-party system and lead to the creation of numerous parties. The Bar Association group would get around that by requiring that the winning candidate receive at least 40 per cent of the popular vote, with a runoff election between the two top contenders if neither won 40 per cent of the vote. This appears to deal with the difficulty.

The ABA commission said of the electoral college method that it is "archaic, undemocratic, complex, ambiguous, indirect and dangerous." Reflection offers much support of this, though the system has functioned for more than 175 years. Congress would be well advised to consider a constitutional amendment providing for direct popular choice without the needless encumbrance of electors.

Juniors Plan Prom Events

By ANDREA HEISS
Plans for the annual 1967 Senior Prom and Banquet are in full swing under the direction of Diane Silva and Willy Coultas. The JHS Junior Class is planning to hold the prom Friday, April 28, at the Blackhawk Restaurant.

Though the juniors had formerly planned to hold the banquet and dance at MacMurray, the date and place had to be changed because of a conflicting event with MacMurray's calendar. With the assistance of Miss Howard, the junior advisor, and Mrs. Savage, the assistant advisor, the juniors selected the Blackhawk since it can fulfill the needs of the junior class.

A hot buffet dinner will be served, after which the traditional speeches will be presented. According to the juniors, the seniors will be honored by "a completely different" gift. Last year the junior class presented members of the Class of '66 with a JHS ring attached to a necklace for the girls and an inscribed tie clip for the boys. The gifts, which will remain unknown until the Banquet, have already been ordered.

The entire second floor of the restaurant will be re-arranged to accommodate a band, a dancing area, and seating, after the banquet. The prom committees have already been formed and the flowers and table decorations have been ordered. However, Miss Howard and Mr. Hayter, the JHS orchestra director, are still uncertain about the band.

According to tradition, the theme of the 1967 Senior Prom will be kept secret until the night of the dance.

Whatever happened to the old statement, "A man is as good as his word"? Early in this new year we might take a fresh look at the problem. When the promises that men live by become casual, then the very fabric of our civilization is in danger.

When the late Adlai Stevenson, then U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, was accused of being a "soft compromiser" there were immediate overtones. Everyone denied everything, and yet the man's abilities and influence were tarnished.

It was not just a matter of whether it was true or not; it was the manner in which it was done.

What happens to public influence and a judgment of integrity if a man is tried by unidentified innuendo? What happens to personal reputation when petty gossip is tolerated?

Or consider athletes, college-bred, and adept enough to be considered for professional jobs, who simultaneously sign two or three contracts. Doesn't a college graduate know the meaning of his own signature on a contract?

We have just celebrated notable religious festivals and come into another year which will exhibit the measure of those festivals. If what we have done publicly has merit, then it will be expressed in a new birth of the integrity of a word.

• If perjury becomes a casual happening, our legal structure is undermined.

• If personal lying becomes an accepted procedure, then our daily relationships are endangered.

• If personal debts and financial obligations are assumed without a sense of responsibility, our economic future is endangered.

FINDING THE WAY

dangered.

• If there is no sense of conscience about speaking the truth, then personal promises and public treaties become a mockery.

Our religious faith has a validity not only because of its public ceremony but also because of the personal commitment of individuals and groups.

It is at the point of the identification of man's ideals, hopes, ambitions and desires in allegiance with his religious faith that the whole purpose of its existence becomes clear. God is as good as His word; godliness is the expression of this ideal.

In contrast to the meaningless nihilism of so much of cynical relationships there is the blessed little prayer written by John Baillie, which should be renewed throughout this year of 1967:

Lord grant me: The grace of strict truthfulness; The grace of charity that I may refrain from hasty judgment; The grace of silence that I may refrain from hasty speech; The grace of forgiveness toward all who have wronged me; Forgive me Lord, the unkind word and the unkind silence.

Ann Landers:

Booze Sends Brain on Furlough

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Several days ago my husband and I attended a party in the home of some long-time friends. The guests were very congenial and we had a wonderful time — as far as I can remember. I'm ashamed to tell you that I had too much to drink and the last part of the evening is a complete blank.

I have a nagging fear that I insulted one of the women but I honestly cannot recall whether it actually happened or I dreamed it.

We will be seeing this same group in a few weeks and I want to know if I should telephone the woman before the party and ask if I was out of line. Or should I wait until I see her and then apologize? Or would it be best to forget the whole thing? — MRS. DON'T REMEMBER

Dear Mrs. Don't: Few situations are as awkward as a woman trying to reconstruct what happened when she was drunk. There's always the chance that the other party was stiff, too, so I say let bad enough alone. Now that you know booze sends your brain on a furlough and your mouth on active duty, lay off the sauce and you won't be plagued with this problem in the future.

Dear Ann Landers: I am not writing for advice. I think anyone who can't solve his own problems has a screw loose. But I do read your column every day just to see what the nuts are going to write in about next.

A few days ago I read a letter from a woman who is out of her mind. She said her husband had had an affair, that he came to her practically on his knees, and she said she was over and begged her to take him back. She said yes for the children's sake but she wrote: "of course I can never truly forgive him." Her letter was signed "World Torn Apart."

If she thinks her world is torn apart she should try living in MY world. My husband has been keeping a tramp for three years and I'd give anything if he would tell me it's over and ask me to forgive him. Some wives don't know when they are well off. — LIFE IS A DUNG HEAP

Dear Friend: I agree that the woman who wrote would be wise to rid herself of resentment and welcome the contrite husband with open arms — but sometimes it's easier said than done.

And now, about signature, lady. You'd better elevate your opinion of life if you want it to get better.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please tell me what my grocer meant when he said "You have to pay your bill with cash from now on because the last check you gave me bounced and I had to put it through a second time before I got my money." My credit has always been good and I don't know what he was talking about. I asked for an explanation and he said he wasn't very good at explaining things and to please pay in cash or take my business elsewhere.

I am disturbed over this and would like you to tell me what does the term "bounced check" mean? — GREENHORN

Dear Green: When a check bounces it means there is not enough money in the account to cover it.

If you still do not understand go to your bank and ask someone to explain it to you. A person who writes checks when he doesn't have sufficient funds can go to jail.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pecans Are Most Popular

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Q—We like nuts in our house. Please tell me two things: what is the most popular tree nut, and how many nuts in the shell does it take to get a pound of nut meats?

A—To your first question, the answer is pecans are the first choice of consumers, with walnuts and almonds second and third choice, according to specialists in food marketing of New York State Co-operative Extension at Cornell University. This is their answer to your second question:

It takes about two pounds of nuts in the shell to give one pound of nutmeats.

The amount from a pound of shelled nuts varies with variety, size and condition of the nut.

One pound of shelled almonds equals 3 cups.

One pound of shelled whole filberts equals 3 1/2 cups.

One pound of shelled halved pecans equals 4 1/4 cups.

One pound of shelled halved walnuts equals 4 1/4 cups.

Mixed nuts, without peanuts, are usually more expensive than other mixtures containing them.

Whole nut meats usually cost more than halves or pieces.

Standing Up to Bullies Pays Dividends of Respect

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Thank you, thank you for what you said about parents of married children not having to put up with abuse by their husbands or wives. For eight years we've had to sit back and watch our daughter cracking up under her husband's cruelty. Because she says that he makes her pay for any objections to his behavior by us, my husband has swallowed his anger, his corrections of the way he speaks English.

Now we wonder if minding our own business is going to result in our girl's breakdown. . . .

ANSWER: Oh, come on. You two people haven't been "minding your own business" at all! You've been minding your daughter's business. You've been most carefully tending her problem of survival with a bully. You couldn't have minded her business more carefully if you were her child. You've swallowed around when she did. You've pussyfooted around cruelty because she has. And if you call that "minding your own business"—well, I do not. I think that neither you nor your husband have been visible in relationship to this man at all. Instead, you have chosen to be submissively disappear into your child's relationship to him as though you possessed no different existence from hers, no different business.

My goodness, "minding our business" in these situations isn't turning ourselves into the beleaguered child! It's holding on more firmly to our different selves than we've ever held on before.

The truth is, it's the firmness of our hold on our own identities that encourages the limply submissive child to try to recover her own.

How in heaven's name can you ever expect this girl to question her solution to life with this man if you adopt it, too? How can you possibly expect her to learn to respect her own resisting feelings toward him if you also turn into mush at his abuse? Good Lord, what is "minding our business" in this world of most unreliable "dos" and "don'ts" if it isn't attending to who we are, to what we feel — and letting other people in on this reality of our moral existence?

Mrs. Lawrence welcomes letters from readers but because of the volume of mail she cannot answer all letters personally. Questions of general interest will be discussed in the columns.

U.S. Must Bolster Japan, Make Clear Its Role In Asia

By RAY CROMLEY

TOKYO (NEA) — Action must be taken now to prevent serious trouble in 1970 over renewal of the U.S.-Japan security treaty which guarantees Japan's defense and provides the United States with key Far East bases.

Without this treaty, which gives Japan a nuclear umbrella, Tokyo could swing sharply neutralist or go into nuclear warhead production itself.

teachers have heavily infiltrated Japan's high schools. They turn out increasing numbers of Red students. College and university freshmen classes are heavy with these brainwashed youth. These young men are the backbone of many of the Communist-led antigovernment and anti-U.S. demonstrations.

This situation provides a happy hunting ground for the Communist dream of an anticonservative united front in which the Reds would play a prominent role.

Severe economic problems further complicate the picture. The strength of the Liberal Democrat party is in the countryside, but Japanese are moving into the cities in increasing numbers.

The cost of living has shot up in Japan. The government partly subsidizes food to hold prices down and to protect the farmer. —The Liberal Democrat party's chief source of support. Despite the subsidies, prices continue to rise.

Higher subsidies would upset the budget. But city people know it costs twice as much to produce rice in Japan's small plots as on large mechanized U.S.

farms. They clamor for greater imports of cheap U.S. rice. But an influx of this low-cost food would ruin Japan's farmers.

The administration hopes to solve these problems with two mammoth drives:

—An aid program to encourage building new homes throughout Japan.

—A superhighway program that would cover Japan with a net of trunk roads.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Ah, Mr. Baker—I'll bet you want to get away from it all like Adam Clayton Powell!"

The Bowling Scene

by Sandy Petersen

Emphasis on winning in the third week of the new bowling year continued to rate with most league-leading units last week, with eight clubs of the 19 leagues reporting gains on their respective fields.

Six other races remained even, while only four leaders lost ground. Only one league lead changed hands last week as Village Printer moved back atop the Topper League.

No new city-wide individual highs were recorded, although two new league best marks were established in the high game department.

Village Printer gained its feat via a 2-1 night, as previous single game-leader Seymour Builders suffered a winless night. Third place Peaks Excavating went 1-2 to remain 1 1/2 games back.

Gerald Lacey's 603 set and a 223 by George Manker topped all individual tallies, while 7 Up and Marks Barber Shop took the team highs with respective 3025 and 1076 counts.

The biggest gain by a league leader came in Three-Man Scratch Classic action Friday where the Bowling Center upped its commanding 10 game spread to 12 via a 3-1 night.

The Fred Olsen-led Price Masonry squad provided the high totals for the week with 653 and 2312 clockings. Olsen paced all scorers with his superb 206, 208, 169, 258-841 outing.

Water's Standard, behind the hot shooting of Wanda Waters, recorded both Jacksonville Merchants' League team highs last week, only to suffer a 1-2 setback and a drop from third to fourth position.

Johnson's Color Mart moved past the 831 and 2464 shooting Waters' bunch to stand 4 1/2 and 3 1/2 games behind W.I.L.L. Radio and B & B Products respectively. Mrs. Waters gained the individual honors with a 207, 157, 162-526 outing.

Baker Chevrolet increased its Elks League lead to 2 1/2 games last week by taking two of three from Olson's Cleaners, despite Olson's high game of 1061.

Blackhawk Restaurant moved into a tie for second during the action via high series of the evening—3078.

Alan Smith shot games of 211, 190 and 206 for a nifty 607, while Red Worral copied high game of a 213.

The previous week's play saw Jim Buckley set a new league high game mark of 255.

Gerald Lacey tossed in a new 3-Man Handicap League high game of a superb 262 — last week to highlight action which saw the Bowling Center maintain its 5 1/2 game advantage.

George Manker sparked the leaders to a 2-2 night with games of 237, 222, 191 and 210 for the week's high 860 series. Team honors went to George's Pizza on a 227 set, and Powell's Body Shop via a 661 recording.

Olson's Cleaners (3-0) and Newman's Shoes (2-1) moved within close range of the Senior Commercial League front-runners last week, as top-rated Cock-A-Doodle Doo and second place May's Music fell 1-2.

Olson's and May's now stand two games back, with Newman's fourth, four games off Cock-A-Doodle Doo's pace.

Darrell Strubbe helped maneuver Newman's climb with a 212, 195, 195-602 outing, while Noel Leitz notched high game on a 235. Meadow Gold wrapped up team bests with 1075 and 3062 counts.

Three game sweeps brought C-2 and 53 into respective second and third slots in the Kordite Womens League, while 0-1 recorded a 2-1 night to increase its spread to three games.

The 53 unit, four-games back, netted high team totals on 803 and 2400 series. Carlene Smith and Sue Crawford capped high series and game highs with respective 509 and 182 efforts.

Dunlap Court Beverage, aided by a week high 841 game, added a game to its Queen Pin League lead last week via a 2-1 faring. Dunlap now stands two up on George's Pizza and 3 1/2 ahead of Meadow Gold.

Florine Gregory's 526 series, gained on 190, 179 and 157 games, and a 202 effort by Norma Lowe rated individual highs. Fourth-place Plantation rolled the top set — 2355.

Birdsell Candies managed only a 2-1 night, but still moved further out ahead of the Thursday Nite Mens League field last week as the second through fifth place units fell 1-2.

Birdsell's netted the game high with a 1060, while the George Manker-sparked Rutland quintet recorded a 3002 for high series. Manker paced all scorers with a 192, 236, 193-621 effort.

Jess Meado reeled off a 154, 257, 202-613 in aiding Roach

Football's Final Gasp Set Today

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Football's final gasp of the long, long 1966-67 season comes here Sunday when top starts of the National Football League collide in the 17th annual Pro Bowl game.

It will be talent for the Western Division against the Eastern — officially designated East and West — in Memorial Coliseum.

The game will be nationally televised by CBS, starting at 3:40 p. m., EST, with the greater Los Angeles area blacked out.

Sponsored by Los Angeles' two metropolitan newspapers, the affair is expected to attract 50,000 fans. The average over the years is 52,686.

It may well be the last of the Pro Bowl battles in its present format, although there has been no official decision on its fate.

Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle said here during the week that the Pro Bowl may wind up as an all-star game between the NFL and American Football League, now that the two leagues have joined forces.

Coaching the squads are George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams for the West and the Dallas Cowboys' Tom Landry for the East.

The West leads in the series, 10-6, and is a slight favorite for this one.

Frosh Duo May Press Alcindor

NEW YORK (AP)—Lew Alcindor, UCLA's super sophomore star, is the rage in college basketball these days, but waiting offstage are two freshmen who may share the headlines with him next season.

Calvin Murphy, 5-foot-11, of Niagara University, and Pete Maravich, 6-4, of Louisiana State, already are being hailed by their supporters as belonging in the same class as the agile 7-1 Alcindor.

Come December, when they will don varsity uniforms for the first time, their play is expected to restore the Purple Eagles of Buffalo, N.Y., and the Tigers of Baton Rouge to the Top Ten of the collegiate dribble sport.

Murphy, who did his high school playing at Norwalk, Conn., and Maravich, a scholastic star at Raleigh, N.C., have been scoring like mad and drawing big crowds to watch them perform. Each is a crack dribbler and passer.

A crowd of 12,342 turned out recently to watch Murphy score 52 points and hand out numerous assists to pace the Niagara frosh over the Canisius yearlings 120-95.

Maravich is the son of Press Maravich, the LSU coach, but that has nothing to do with his ability. He has been dubbed a "basketball Houdini" and the greatest player at LSU since the Bob Pettit era more than a decade ago.

Tennessee Tips Florida, 56-42

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Tennessee threw up a tight zone defense and defeated eighth-ranked Florida 56-42 Saturday night in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

The victory was the Vols' second of the week over the Gators. Tennessee whipped Florida 66-53 on its home court at Gainesville Monday night.

The lead changed hands seven times in the first seven minutes before Tennessee shot ahead to stay on a basket by captain Ron Widby.

Widby, the SEC's leading scorer with a 23.9 average, paced the Vols with 13 points, nine of which came in the first half. Three other Vols shot in double figures, with Tom Boerwinkle and Tom Hendrix getting 12 each and Bill Justus 10.

Gary Keller, Florida's leading scorer with a 15.9 average, was the only Gator in double figures, hitting for 15.

Tennessee, which led at the half 26-23, limited Florida to six field goals in the second half, the visitors going seven minutes and 20 seconds without scoring a point.

The triumph gave Tennessee a 5-1 SEC record and projected the Vols into the thick of the conference championship fight with Vanderbilt and Mississippi State. The Vols are 9-3 overall.

The loss left Florida with a 6-3 league record and dealt a stunning blow to the Gators' hopes for the conference title. Florida's season record is 11-3.

The pros are shooting for a $16,000 top prize with $2,700 to the professional on the winning pro-am team.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

LOS ANGELES (NEA)—At halftime in the Super Bowl coach Vince Lombardi stood before the green-shirted gladiators who represented Green Bay and reminded them they had a superseding obligation.

The Packers led, 14-10, from their exertions but didn't need to be told the Kansas City Chiefs had outgained them, 181 yards to 164, and looked menacing enough to achieve an upset.

"We," said Lombardi, "are representing the whole National Football League."

The feeling really hit home to defensive tackle Henry Jordan, a veteran of 10 years in the NFL.

"It made us uneasy," said Henry, in recalling the moment. "I mean guys who had played against us all these years—from teams like the Browns and the Cardinals—came up and wished us good luck before the game. It was a new experience. Lombardi had told us that before, about representing the league, but we needed a little reminder."

Henry went off singing, "We're in the money."

Phil Bengtson, defensive coach of the Packers, is in his 50s and has been coaching more than a quarter of a century. At halftime, Phil was more concerned with Green Bay representing a football team. Quarterback Lenny Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs, operating from a moving pocket, had the Packers looking like befuddled ducks. "We weren't getting a real good pass rush in the first half," said Phil. "When we got at Dawson, we grabbed instead of tackled. So it resulted in a bit of uncertainty on the part of our individuals. In the second half we improved our tackling a little bit and got to the quarterback. That, basically, is what happened."

What also happened was that when Kansas City took the second half kickoff and advanced near midfield, with a third down and five situation, Bengtson from the sidelines signaled a blitz by his linebackers. It was the first time they blitzed in the game. With linebackers Lee Roy Caffey and Dave Robinson, plus Jordan, putting extreme pressure on Dawson, he threw a wobbly pass that Willie Wood picked off and returned 50 yards to the four-yard line.

Elijah Pitts sliced over for a touchdown on the next play, and Green Bay had firm charge of the game. "The blitz," said Bengtson of his unit, "relaxed them and got them playing their own game and not worrying too much."

Max McGee, the 34-year-old split end of the Packers, had already told friends before the game that he was retiring after 13 years of competition. On the field before the game, Max was primarily concerned with representing himself. Max had not played much during the season.

But he made a brilliant one-hand grab for one touchdown, a juggling catch in the end zone for another and altogether caught seven passes.

"I can't think of a better way to go out," said Max. "I caught more passes than I caught all year. So I think it's about time to quit."

Max got in the game only because Boyd Dowler was hurt early in the first quarter. "You get a little spirit," said Max. "When you get to play, I didn't expect to play much and then, bam, it happened. And that makes a new man out of you, getting on that field."

Max, therefore, represented the pride that makes up a championship athlete and a championship team.

The Kansas City Chiefs, carrying the banner of the American Football League, really had nothing to be ashamed about. They were excellent for one half and obviously have good personnel. The Packers were simply superb.

"I'd say any time we lose a game by even one point," said Chief owner Lamar Hunt. "It's damaging to a team's prestige and, in this case, the league's prestige but one game such as this is not going to make or break the AFL."

Nope, it just made the individual players on the losing team $7,500 poorer. Henry Jordan of the Packers showed what the pros really represent when he contemplated the $15,000 payoff.

"I'm going to cash it all in bills," said Henry, "and put it in the bathtub."

Eventually, he might spend it.

Parilli Leads East By West Stars 30-23

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Boston's veteran quarterback Babe Parilli came off the bench Saturday and led the East to its first ever American Football League All-Star triumph, a 30-23 victory over the West on a rain-drenched, half-flooded Oakland Coliseum field.

Parilli replaced Jack Kemp of Buffalo after the East was held scoreless in the first half and the West had a 16-0 lead.

Parilli, 36-year-old former Kentucky star, connected for two touchdown passes, including the winner which carried 17 yards to Charley Frazier of Houston with 7:42 to go.

Parilli was voted the game's most valuable player on offense, while Verlon Biggs of New York won the pressbox vote for best defense.

The second smallest All-Star crowd — 17,876 — braved a rainstorm that made a 10-yard ankle deep lagoon on the north end of the field and the remainder of the sod a mucky mess.

It was the first victory for the East in five attempts against top players from the Western Division.

The weather was the most important factor. There were nine fumbles, eight interceptions, two safeties and numerous bad snaps from center as the soggy footballs fell heavily short of their targets.

The East, down 23-2 in the third quarter, started picking off West passes and taking advantage of the elements.

Kansas City's Len Dawson went back to pass near midfield, and the ball slipped about six inches out of his hand. Biggs picked it out of the air and ran 50 yards to a touchdown. On the next series, Clem Daniels of Oakland fumbled and Ed Cook of Miami recovered on the West 23.

Parilli then passed 19 yards to Boston teammate Gino Cappelletti for 19. Then he hit Buffalo's Wray Carlton for four and the touchdown. Cappelletti's conversion, his second of four, made it 23-16 with the West still leading.

The East then tied it up, also on a break. Bob Scarpitto of Denver punted into the backside of teammate E.J. Holub, and the East got the ball on the West's 12.

Bobbie Burnett of Buffalo ran around end for the touchdown on the first play.

The East then tied it up, also on a break. Bob Scarpitto of Denver punted into the backside of teammate E.J. Holub, and the East got the ball on the West's 12.

Bobbie Burnett of Buffalo ran around end for the touchdown on the first play.

East 0 0 16 14-30 West 9 7 0-23

Parilli's 19-yard pass to Cappelletti for the touchdown was the first of four for the East in the second half.

The weather was the most important factor. There were nine fumbles, eight interceptions, two safeties and numerous bad snaps from center as the soggy footballs fell heavily short of their targets.

The East, down 23-2 in the third quarter, started picking off West passes and taking advantage of the elements.

Kansas City's Len Dawson went back to pass near midfield, and the ball slipped about six inches out of his hand. Biggs picked it out of the air and ran 50 yards to a touchdown. On the next series, Clem Daniels of Oakland fumbled and Ed Cook of Miami recovered on the West 23.

Parilli then passed 19 yards to Boston teammate Gino Cappelletti for 19. Then he hit Buffalo's Wray Carlton for four and the touchdown. Cappelletti's conversion, his second of four, made it 23-16 with the West still leading.

The Bowling Scene

by Sandy Petersen

Emphasis on winning in the third week of the new bowling year continued to rate with most league-leading units last week, with eight clubs of the 19 leagues reporting gaining on their respective fields.

Six other races remained even, while only four leaders lost ground. Only one league lead changed hands last week as Village Printer moved back atop the Topper League.

No new city-wide individual highs were recorded, although two new league best marks were established in the high game department.

Village Printer gained its feat via a 2-1 night, as previous single game-leader Seymour Builders suffered a winless night. Third place Pecks Excavating went 1-2 to remain 1 1/2 games back.

Gerald Lacey's 603 set and a 223 by George Manker topped all individual tallies, while 7 Up and Marks Barber Shop took the team highs with respective 3025 and 1076 counts.

The biggest gain by a league leader came in Three-Man Scratch Classic action Friday where the Bowling Center upped its commanding 10 game spread to 12 via a 3-1 night.

The Fred Olsen-led Price Masonry squad provided the high totals for the week with 653 and 2312 clockings. Olsen paced all scorers with his superb 206, 208, 169, 258—841 outing.

Water's Standard, behind the hot shooting of Wanda Waters, recorded both Jacksonville Merchants' League team highs last week, only to suffer a 1-2 setback and a drop from third to fourth position.

Johnson's Color Mart moved past the 831 and 2464 shooting Waters' bunch to stand 4 1/2 and 3 1/2 games behind W.J.L. Radio and B & B Products respectively. Mrs. Waters gained the individual honors with a 207, 157, 162—526 outing.

Baker Chevrolet increased its Elks League lead to 2 1/2 games last week by taking two of three from Olson's Cleaners, despite Olson's high game of 1061.

Blackhawk Restaurant moved into a tie for second during the action via high series of the evening—3078.

Alan Smith shot games of 211, 190 and 206 for a nifty 607, while Red Worrall topped high game on a 213.

The previous week's play saw Jim Buckley set a new league high game mark of 255.

Gerald Lacey tossed in a new 3-Man Handicap League high game — a superb 262 — last week to highlight action which saw the Bowling Center maintain its 5 1/2 game advantage.

George Manker sparked the leaders to a 2-2 night with games of 237, 222, 191 and 210 for the week's high 860 series. Team honors went to George's Pizza on a 2227 set, and Powell's Body Shop via a 661 recording.

Olson's Cleaners (3-0) and Newman's Shoes (2-1) moved within close range of the Senior Commercial League front-runners last week, as top-rated Cok-A-Doodle Doo and second place May's Music fell 1-2.

Olson's and May's now stand two games back, with Newman's fourth, four games off Cok-A-Doodle Doo's pace. Darrell Strubbe helped maneuver Newman's climb with a 212, 195, 195—602 outing, while Noel Leitz notched high game on a 235. Meadow Gold wrapped up team bests with 1075 and 3062 counts.

Three game sweeps brought C-2 and 53 into respective second and third slots in the Korlitz Womens League, while 0-1 recorded a 2-1 night to increase its spread to three games.

The 53 unit, four-games back, netted high team totals on 803 and 2400 scores. Carlene Smith and Sue Crawford topped high series and game highs with respective 509 and 182 efforts.

Dunlap Court Beverage, aided by a week high 641 game, added a game to its Queen Pin League lead last week via a 2-1 faring. Dunlap now stands two up on George's Pizza and 3 1/2 ahead of Meadow Gold.

Florine Gregory's 526 series, gained on 190, 179 and 157 games, and a 202 effort by Norma Lowe rated individual highs. Fourth-place Plantation rolled the top set — 2355.

Birdsell Candies managed only a 2-1 night, but still moved further out ahead of the Thursday Nite Mens League field last week as the second thru fifth place units fell 1-2.

Birdsell's netted the game high with a 1060, while the George Manker-sparked Rutland quintet recorded a 3002 for high series. Manker paced all scorers with a 192, 236, 193—621 effort.

Jess Meado reeled off a 154, 257, 202—613 in aiding Roach

Football's Final Gasp Set Today

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Football's final gasp of the long, long 1966-67 season comes here Sunday when top starts of the National Football League collide in the 17th annual Pro Bowl game.

It will be talent for the Western Division against the Eastern — officially designated East and West — in Memorial Coliseum.

The game will be nationally televised by CBS, starting at 3:40 p. m., EST, with the greater Los Angeles area blacked out.

Sponsored by Los Angeles' two metropolitan newspapers, the affair is expected to attract 50,000 fans. The average over the years is 52,686.

It may well be the last of the Pro Bowl battles in its present format, although there has been no official decision on its fate.

Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle said here during the week that the Pro Bowl may wind up as an all-star game between the NFL and American Football League, now that the two leagues have joined forces.

Coaching the squads are George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams for the West and the Dallas Cowboys' Tom Landry for the East.

The West leads in the series, 10-6, and is a slight favorite for this one.

Frosh Duo May Press Alcindor

NEW YORK (AP)—Lew Alcindor, UCLA's super sophomore star, is the rage in college basketball these days, but waiting offstage are two freshmen who may share the headlines with him next season.

Calvin Murphy, 5-foot-11, of Niagara University, and Pete Maravich, 6-4, of Louisiana State, already are being hailed by their supporters as belonging in the same class as the agile 7-1 Alcindor.

Come December, when they will don varsity uniforms for the first time, their play is expected to restore the Purple Eagles of Buffalo, N.Y., and the Tigers of Baton Rouge to the Top Ten of the collegiate dribble sport.

Murphy, who did his high school playing at Norwalk, Conn., and Maravich a scholastic star at Raleigh, N.C., have been scoring like mad and drawing big crowds to watch them perform. Each is a crack dribbler and passer.

A crowd of 12,342 turned out recently to watch Murphy score 52 points and hand out numerous assists to pace the Niagara frosh over the Canisius yearlings 120-95.

Maravich is the son of Press Maravich, the LSU coach, but that has nothing to do with his ability. He has been dubbed a "basketball Houdini" and the greatest player at LSU since the Bob Pettit era more than a decade ago.

Tennessee Tips Florida, 56-42

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Tennessee threw up a tight zone defense and defeated eighth-ranked Florida 56-42 Saturday night in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

The victory was the Vols' second of the week over the Gators. Tennessee whipped Florida 66-53 on its home court at Gainesville Monday night.

The lead changed hands seven times in the first seven minutes before Tennessee shot ahead to stay on a basket by captain Ron Widby.

Widby, the SEC's leading scorer with a 23.9 average, paced the Vols with 13 points, nine of which came in the first half. Three other Vols shot in double figures, with Tom Boerwinkle and Tom Hendrix getting 12 each and Bill Justus 10.

Gary Keller, Florida's leading scorer with a 15.9 average, was the only Gator in double figures, hitting for 15.

Tennessee, which led at the half 26-23, limited Florida to six field goals in the second half, the visitors going seven minutes and 20 seconds without scoring a point.

The triumph gave Tennessee a 5-1 SEC record and projected the Vols into the thick of the conference championship fight with Vanderbilt and Mississippi State. The Vols are 9-3 overall.

The loss left Florida with a 6-3 league record and dealt a stunning blow to the Gators' hopes for the conference title. Florida's season record is 11-3.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

LOS ANGELES — (NEA) At halftime in the Super Bowl coach Vince Lombardi stood before the green-shirted gladiators who represented Green Bay and reminded them they had a superseding obligation.

The Packers led, 14-10, from their exertions but didn't need to be told the Kansas City Chiefs had outgained them, 181 yards to 164, and looked menacing enough to achieve an upset.

"We," said Lombardi, "are representing the whole National Football League."

The feeling really hit home to defensive tackle Henry Jordan, a veteran of 10 years in the NFL.

"It made us queasy," said Henry, in recalling the moment. "I mean guys who had played against us all these years—from teams like the Browns and the Cardinals—came up and wished us good luck before the game. It was a new experience. Lombardi had told us that before, about representing the league, but we needed a little reminder."

Henry went off singing, "We're in the money."

Henry, Bengtson, defensive coach of the Packers, is in his 50s and has been coaching more than a quarter of a century. At halftime, Phil was more concerned with Green Bay representing a football team. Quarterback Lenny Dawson of the Kansas City Chiefs, operating from a moving pocket, had the Packers looking like befuddled ducks. "We weren't getting a real good pass rush in the first half," said Phil. "When we got at Dawson, we grabbed instead of tackled. So it resulted in a bit of uncertainty on the part of our individuals. In the second half we improved our tackling a little bit and got to the quarterback. That, basically, is what happened."

What also happened was that when Kansas City took the second half kickoff and advanced near midfield, with a third down and five situation, Bengtson from the sidelines signaled a blitz by his linebackers. It was the first time they blitzed in the game. With linebackers Lee Roy Caffey and Dave Robinson, plus Jordan, putting extreme pressure on Dawson, he threw a wobbly pass that Willie Wood picked off and returned 50 yards to the four-yard line.

Elijah Pitts sliced over for a touchdown and Green Bay had firm charge of the game. "The blitz," said Bengtson of his unit, "relaxed them and got them playing their own game and not worrying too much."

Max McGee, the 34-year-old split end of the Packers, had already told friends before the game that he was retiring after 13 years of competition. On the field before the game, Max was primarily concerned with representing himself. Max had not played much during the season.

But he made a brilliant one-hand grab for one touchdown, a juggling catch in the end zone for another and altogether caught seven passes.

"I can't think of a better way to go out," said Max. "I caught more passes than I caught all year. So I think it's about time to quit."

Max got in the game only because Boyd Dowler was hurt early in the first quarter. "You get a little spirit," said Max. "When you get to play, I didn't expect to play much and then, bam, it happened. And that makes a new man out of you, getting on that field."

Max, therefore, represented the pride that makes up a championship athlete and a championship team.

The Kansas City Chiefs, carrying the banner of the American Football League, really had nothing to be ashamed about. They were excellent for one half and obviously have good personnel. The Packers were simply superb.

"I'd say any time we lose a game by even one point," said Chief owner Lamar Hunt. "It's damaging to a team's prestige and, in this case, the league's prestige but one game such as this is not going to make or break the AFL."

Nope, it just made the individual players on the losing team $7,500 poorer. Henry Jordan of the Packers showed what the pros really represent when he contemplated the $15,000 payoff.

"I'm going to cash it all in $1 bills," said Henry, "and put it in the bathtub."

Eventually, he might spend

Parilli Leads East By West Stars 30-23

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Boston's veteran quarterback Babe Parilli came off the bench Saturday and led the East to its first ever American Football League All-Star triumph, a 30-23 victory over the West on a rain-drenched, half-flooded Oakland Coliseum field.

Parilli replaced Jack Kemp of Buffalo after the East was held scoreless in the first half and the West had a 16-0 lead.

Parilli, 36-year-old former Kentucky star, connected for two touchdown passes, including the winner which carried 17 yards to Charley Frazier of Houston with 7:42 to go.

Parilli was voted the game's most valuable player on offense while Verlon Biggs of New York won the pressbox vote for best defense.

The second smallest All-Star crowd — 17,876 — braved a rainstorm that made a 10-yard ankle deep lagoon on the north end of the field and the remainder of the sod a mucky mess.

It was the first victory for the East in five attempts against top players from the Western Division.

The weather was the most important factor. There were nine fumbles, eight interceptions, two safeties and numerous bad snaps from center as the soggy footballs fell heavily short of their targets.

The East, down 23-2 in the third quarter, started picking off West passes and taking advantage of the elements.

Kansas City's Len Dawson went back to pass near midfield, and the ball slipped about six inches out of his hand. Biggs picked it out of the air and ran 50 yards to a touchdown. On the next series, Clem Daniels of Oakland fumbled and Ed Cook of Miami recovered on the West 23.

Parilli then passed 19 yards to Boston teammate Gino Capelletti for 19. Then he hit Buffalo's Wray Carlton for four and the touchdown. Capelletti's conversion, his second of four, made it 23-16 with the West still leading.

The East then tied it up, also on a break. Bob Scarpitto of Denver punted into the backside of teammate E.J. Holub, and the East got the ball on the West's 12.

Bobbie Burnett of Buffalo ran around end for the touchdown on the first play.

Southern Small In Name Only

By LON EUBANKS Written For

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. CARBONDALE, Ill. — (NEA) — A misty legend gave southern Illinois the name "Egypt."

It's based on the story of a drought long ago in the state when the fertile fields in the north were dusty and the streams were dry.

In southern Illinois, however, rain fell and crops survived. It was like the Egypt of old.

There's a new feeling of prosperity today in "Egypt," too. Southern Illinois University has one of the nation's top basketball teams, despite its NCAA college-division label.

Many people wonder why a school with 25,000 students on a sprawling 11,000-acre campus is considered "small college." The answer is the athletic schedule. SIU has not been able to play more than half its games against major teams.

For good reason, SIU has beaten defending national champion Texas Western, and second-ranked Louisville this year. Not many coaches or athletic directors of the major schools want to risk their prestige against Southern Illinois.

Southern Illinois' rise has not been overnight as many would believe.

It began in 1958 when former professional star Harry Gallatin was coaching. When he left in 1962, his teams had won 79 and lost 35 and Southern Illinois had gained a reputation as a coming power.

Jack Hartman succeeded Gallatin in 1962 when Harry returned to the National Basketball Association as a coach.

Hartman, who learned his basketball at Oklahoma State under Hank Iba, has been just as successful. In his first four years at SIU his teams have a 78-33 record.

The Salukis (the team name and mascot is a sleek Egyptian hunting dog) also have finished second in the NCAA college division playoffs for the past two seasons.

Jack's teams are methodical and work hard on defense in the Iba image, but they take the fast break opportunity.

"We'll shoot after two passes if we can get the good shot we want," Hartman said, "but if it takes 15 passes then we'll make 15."

Walt Frazier, a 6-3 junior guard from Atlanta, Ga., is the leading scorer for SIU this year (16 points per game) and his 12 rebounds a game start a few of those fast breaks.

The other four starters—Dick Garrett, Clarence Smith, Ralph Johnson and Eddie Zastrow—all are from Illinois. Smith is the lone regular back from last season. Johnson is the tallest at 6-7.

Unfortunately, Frazier and his teammates won't get a chance to show how strong they really are because at the end of the season, they'll be competing in the NCAA's college-division tournament, which, Hartman says, is tough enough.

Jack, however, appreciates the opportunity some of the major basketball schools have given SIU.

"Without the opportunity to play Louisville," he said, "we would never have the chance to beat them. Louisville, St. Louis, Texas Western, Oklahoma State, Wichita and some others gave us our chance and we're grateful to those coaches who'd play us. A lot of schools wouldn't."

There is a feeling now that Southern Illinois may be headed for the tough Missouri Valley conference.

Hartman wants "to play as many of the country's outstanding teams as we can." But he's not letting SIU's success and No. 1 rating in the college division whittle him off his feet.

After the Salukis edged previously unbeaten Louisville, a buoyed fan asked Hartman if he had tried to schedule UCLA.

"If they call us, we'll jump at the chance," he said, smiling. "But if I call them, somebody better have my head examined."

Cincinnati Slips Past Louisville

CINCINNATI (AP)—Sophomore Gordon Smith camed a 20-foot jumper with five seconds left to give the University of Cincinnati a squeaking 59-58 upset victory over second-ranked Louisville Saturday in a Missouri Valley Conference basketball game.

The loss was only the second for the highly touted Cardinals, who have now lost three games in a row to the Bearcats by two points or less. The loss was also Louisville's first in the Valley and dropped them to 4-1. They are 15-2 over-all.

The hot shooting Smith hit another short shot, a jumper from the lane with about 39 seconds left, to give the Bearcats a 57-56 lead. But then Fred Holden connected on two free throws with 14 seconds to give the Cardinals a one-point bulge.

After Cincinnati called time out, Smith arched in the big basket to give the Bearcats their third conference victory against two losses and a 12-3 season record.

Lincoln Pilgrimage Ends In Tragedy For Lisle Scouts

A Lincolnland pilgrimage for two carloads of Boy Scouts ended in tragedy when one of the cars in the convoy skidded on frosty pavement and careened over a 20-foot embankment four miles east of Jacksonville on U.S. 36-54 about 8:15 a.m. Saturday.

Two persons were killed and three injured as a result of the crash, all from Lisle, Illinois, in DuPage county.

Dead on arrival at Holy Cross hospital was the driver of the car, Gordon C. Davis, 46, of 5243 Oakview Drive, and a passenger in the auto, 14-year-old Robert Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger J. Holt, 700 Inverness Road. Keller died about 30 minutes after his arrival at Holy Cross hospital.

Two of the injured were rushed to Passavant hospital: Tom Davis, 14-year-old son of the fatally-injured driver, who is reported in critical condition; and John Gregg Walker, 14, 628 John Paul Ave., reported in satisfactory condition. Another passenger in the auto, 15-year-old Richard (Dick) Feely of 604 Gamble, is reported in satisfactory condition at Holy Cross hospital.

Skids 150 Feet
State troopers who investigated at the scene of the accident said the car driven by Davis was eastbound at the time of the accident and skidded on frosty pavement just west of Dead Man's Curve, four miles east of Jacksonville.

The driver apparently lost control on the slick pavement and ran off the north side of the highway into a deep gully. The highway was partially shaded from the early morning sun when the accident occurred.

The Davis car wreckage was scattered more than 150 feet on the north side of the highway.

Pinned In The Car
Troopers called the Jacksonville Rescue Squad and a wrecker from the John Ellis garage upon arrival. The occupants were pinned inside the car which came to rest on its top in the deep ditch.

The wrecker crew quickly hooked onto the car and lifted it high enough to allow Jacksonville Firemen, members of the rescue squad, to remove the scouts and the driver. They were then rushed to both hospitals by waiting ambulances. All occupants of the auto were extracted from the demolished auto within a few minutes.

Saw It In Rear-View Mirror
The second carload of scouts from Lisle was ahead of the Davis car and was not involved in the accident. That car was driven by Dan Feely, 33, of 604 Gamble, father of one of the injured boys.

Feely told troopers at the scene that he saw the car driven by Davis run out of control and

'Doesn't Understand' Charge He Beat And Broke Daughter's Arm

JERSEYVILLE — Harry Kelley Jr., 20, was arraigned in the Jersey County Circuit Court Friday morning before Associate Circuit Judge Howard Lee White on a charge of Battery on three counts contained in an information filed by State's Attorney Alvin H. Pettit Friday morning.

Struck Infant
Two of the counts charge Kelley with violence toward his infant daughter Kelley Franklin Kelley. The first count charges him with beating of the child and slapping her with his hands or fists and inflicting bruises upon her body.

Hair From Scalp
The second count in which Kelley Franklin Kelley is named charges that Harry Kelley lifted her from the floor by the hair of her head and pulled hair from her scalp.

Fractures Arm
The other count in the information charges Kelley with violence toward his older daughter Sally Kelley. The violence was of such a nature and extent that the child sustained a fracture of the left arm.

Shortly after filing of the information, the capias was served on Kelley by Sheriff Adam DeShleria and Chief of Police Herman H. Blackberry Jr.

Doesn't Understand
Kelley was arraigned soon after his arrest before Judge White and advised of his constitutional rights. When questioned by Judge White if he understood what the court had said, explained Kelley stated he did not.

Judge White repeated and gave detailed explanation to the defendant of his rights to naming of an attorney to defend him in case he was unable to employ one.

Kelley shrugged his shoulders and announced that he would waive the appointment of an attorney. Kelley then stated he wanted a continuance. Judge White continued the matter until nine thirty a.m. Monday, January 23rd.

Bond in the case was set by Judge White at five thousand dollars and Kelley was remanded to the Jersey County Jail pending furnishing of the required bail.

Lincoln-Douglas Assets Up 26% Over Year Ago

The annual meeting of the shareholders of Lincoln-Douglas Savings and Loan Association was held at the office of the Association this week.

During the meeting, Bill Colburn, president of the association, reported to the stockholders on the progress and outstanding growth of Lincoln-Douglas Savings during 1966. He reported that total assets of the association had increased from $10,002,795 to $12,576,102 as of December 31, 1966, or a growth of 26% and over $2,500,000 in one year.

Total savings stood at $10,581,123 representing an increase for the year of $2,618,018 or 26% over one year ago.

This made 1966 the greatest growth year for savings since the association started into business on January 19, 1962, with assets of only $135,000, a remarkable increase when considered in light of the tight money situation during the year from coast to coast. There were also 932 new savings accounts in 1966.

Lincoln-Douglas Savings made 185 mortgage loans in the Jacksonville area during the year, totaling $2,784,196.00.

Mr. Colburn further reported that all departments of the Association set records for the year, that there is every indication 1967 will be another excellent year. He said Lincoln-Douglas Savings will continue its outstanding growth which in a period of less than five years has made it a financial institution with assets over $12,500,000, and the fastest growing savings institution in west central Illinois, and that the management and staff of the association will continue its efforts to give the people of the west central Illinois area the best in service at all times.

During the business session the following directors were re-elected to serve on the Board: Dr. E. C. Bone, B. G. Colburn, C. G. Colburn, J. R. Davidsmeyer, King V. Hostick, R. A. Sturdy and Earl R. A FROST-COVERED HIGHWAY turned a scouting weekend into tragedy Saturday morning as this auto skidded off the road four miles east of the city. A carload of scouts from Lisle, Illinois, were enroute to Springfield, after spending the night near Jacksonville, for a visit of several Lincolnland shrines. The driver of the auto and one of the boy scout passengers died from injuries sustained in the wreck.

Illinois Lawmakers Wade Into Education Battle This Week

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois lawmakers step this week into the embattled area of state-financed higher education, recognized as a billion-dollar problem.

The legislature will receive Gov. Otto Kerner's views on labor legislation, including his support of a minimum wage.

Hit Strikes

Republican majority leaders have proposed to deny pension benefits to public employees who strike. Teachers Union spokesmen responded that this was a terror tactic and said they would seek collective bargaining authority for public employees.

Kerner's reappointment of Ross V. Randolph as state public safety director is expected to come under attack in the Senate Executive Committee by Sen. John Graham, R-Barrington.

Graham has criticized Randolph's maintenance of living quarters at Menard Prison, troubled in recent years by convict and guard unrest.

A new appointee of Kerner's—Theodore A. Jones, director of revenue—will confront the committee which recommends whether the Senate should confirm appointments.

Leaders of the Republican majorities in both houses will confer with Kerner Tuesday on master planning for higher education. The tentative cost for 1967-69 for building and operations has been set at $1 billion.

Among Democratic minority representatives called to the conference is Rep. Chester Wiktoriski, D-Chicago, chairman of Illinois School Problems Commission.

Will Decide Level

The commission meets Monday to begin determining what level of aid the state should provide to elementary and high school districts.

The present level of $330 a pupil cost the state about $589 million in 1965-67. A task force has recommended $600 a pupil.

Dr. Lyman Glenn, executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, will attend the Kerner conference. Critics call him the most powerful figure in higher education in Illinois.

One subject will be whether to support the board's approval of a master plan proposal for $20 million in scholarships.

A federation of 43 private Illinois colleges and universities has questioned the need for setting up new public college facilities. The group wants the $20 million allocated for scholarships at any school in the state expanded to $35 million to encourage wider use of existing private colleges.

The Republican legislative program, announced by Sen. W. Russell Arrington, Senate majority leader, advocates expansion of scholarship and loan programs. Arrington also called for funds to construct junior colleges, and for an increase in

Joe Kingston Sings The Country Blues, But Nobody Listens

Country-Western music, with a charismatic mystic all its own, outsells Sinatra, Como and Andy Williams when they aren't singing it.

You hear it in the truck stops, the bars, army posts and prisons, and farmers have it plugged into their ears via transistor radio when they plant their corn.

It is a draw.

The Grand Ole Opry held each year of the Illinois State Fair is always the first show sold out, even before the auto races.

Nashville, Tennessee, is its mecca. The best in Country-Western is characterized by the "Nashville Sound." Maybe they can't read music, but they can pick a bluegrass banjo and a rhythm guitar like a biting saw or a kitten's purr, and their plaintive voices ring with America.

Joe Kingston

But it is a tough racket to break into.

It is a tight market. Ask Joe Kingston, 35, of rural route one, Franklin, who has been writing, playing and singing country since he was 15.

"Nashville is a sewed-up market. I don't think the people who own it want outsiders in. The insincerity and clannishness of the people in control, and the monopoly they hold, is undemocratic.

"This is probably true in other lines of business too, but a lawyer, if he doesn't make it in one city, he can go to another one. But I don't know where you go from Nashville. They're king and the king rules."

Joe said he saw good singers go almost unnoticed at the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville because they weren't paying the Master of Ceremonies to urge the crowd on with enthusiastic arm motions.

Kingston has sent songs to Hank Snow, Gene Autry, Webb Pierce, Cowboy Copas and others, without results. Hank Snow sent him a contract, but hasn't recorded the song. Copas was ready to do one when he was killed in an airplane crash, Joe says.

"I've written to many more, but I haven't sent many tapes because 90 per cent of them are pitched without being opened, and I can realize why. These singers are flooded with materi-

Joe hasn't got an agent. "The agents named on a list published by the Musician's Union seem to be quacks. They'll steal your material and over-impress you with what they'll do for you when they know they don't have the connections to do any good."

But Joe has had some success. One of his songs, "Bringin' Mary Home," has been recorded by six artists on three singles and in three albums. Some of the better known in the country music field who recorded it are Mac Wiseman and the Willis Brothers, both in the Country Music Hall of Fame, and the Country Gentlemen and Frankie Miller.

Richest U.S. Families Plan Red Trade Bridge

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rockefeller brothers and Cyrus S. Eaton Jr., representing two of the nation's richest families, plan to build a better trade bridge between the Western Hemisphere and Communist countries in Eastern Europe.

The financial alliance, linking Wall Street and the Midwest, was disclosed recently and confirmed by Richard S. Aldrich of the Rockefeller interests.

It will involve cooperation between the International Basic Economy Corp., controlled by the Rockefeller brothers, and Tower International, Inc., headed by Eaton, a Cleveland industrialist. Aldrich, a vice president and director of IBEC, said his organization's objective "is to improve the standard of living of the peoples of the world."

"An initiative that creates a commercial and industrial dialogue between the East and the West cannot help but contribute to the trade exchange plan — encompassing the United States, Canada and Latin America — brings together the enormous investment skills of the Rockefeller family and the almost unique relationship the Eatons have with the Soviet bloc.

Cyrus S. Eaton Sr., long an advocate of closer ties between the United States and the Soviet Union, has cultivated some support behind the iron curtain by his trips to Moscow. He has entertained Soviet leaders, including former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

A Box Of Historical Items

When Leslie Ankrum of Morgan Builders, Inc., began the job of tearing down the Central Baptist church edifice, old State Street Presbyterian church, he asked his crew of workmen to keep their eyes peeled for a hallowed out stone.

"I've been told that there's a box of records in the front wall, somewhere. It seems that it's not where such a box is usually found, in the cornerstone."

Ankrum began to think that he had received some misinformation, until around knocking off time Wednesday afternoon when one of the men pointed out a rock with a chiseled slot in it.

Then everybody started looking for the box, and under a pile of brick, stone and mortar Herman Mohlenbrock of Beardsdown Central Illinoisan, town pulled out a galvanized sheet iron box, about six inches wide, ten inches long and four inches deep, soldered shut.

"Here she is," Mohlenbrock shouted. That night Ankrum opened the box and found it contained 31 different items. On the very top was a handwritten note on a printed letterhead of the First National Bank of Jacksonville.

This is what he read: No. 511 Edward Scott, President. John Traube, V. President. F. G. Farrell, Cashier. W. F. Epler, A. Cashier. FIRST NATIONAL BANK of Jacksonville Jacksonville, Ill. 23rd April, 1885

The box in which this is enclosed was put in the walls of "State Street Pres. Church" this day by F. G. Farrell, assisted by Silas Terry, supt. of the contractor of the building, and E. P. Mount, brick mason. Mr. Hugh Wilson is the contractor and builder of the new church - Contract Price, $16,500 cash and old Lots. $16,100 - total, $32,600. Dr. Carriel, Judge Edward Scott, Hon. E. L. McDonald, Gates Strawn and F. G. Farrell are the building committee. Building commenced Sept. 1884 to be finished by Sept. 1885. The contract does not include Seating, Heating & Lighting.

F. G. Farrell in his 50th year. The next 14 items were evidently taken from the older brick edifice the congregation built on the east side of West Street, facing West State street with a large lawn in front and with two lines of hitchhacks in the rear, just off Morgan street. This building was declared the best in the state when it was dedicated in 1867, but it burned to the ground Sept. 26, 1884.

It took a long time to build this church, for the cornerstone was laid Aug. 4, 1864. These items were:

From the Jacksonville Sentinel: The Union School House, five miles north-west of town, took fire from the stove flue, on Thursday last, while the school was in session, and was burned to the ground. The furniture and books were saved. Loss estimated at $1,200. No insurance.

The snow storm that swept over the county a few days since, left its fleecy mark in this vicinity. Severe cold did not as usual follow the fall of snow, and during the day and evening of Monday, the ear was constantly filled with the merry jingling of bells and the shouts and laughter of youth, beauty and happiness on runners.

We learn that the members of Union Fire Company No. 1, of this city, contemplate applying for an act of incorporation at the present session of the legislature. Such incorporation will make the company a permanent institution, enabling it to hold property and exercise other corporate functions.

The proceedings in the election contest (Mayfield vs. Moore) were temporarily suspended on Tuesday afternoon, to enable Judge Whitlock to tie the marriage knot for a happy couple in waiting. The Judge, although an inveterate specimen of the confirmed Bach, rather likes these little jobs, and does them up in brief and dignified style.

From the Beardsdown Central Illinoisian:

Go to Fred Ratliff's Oyster Saloon if you want good fresh oyster soup, where you can have them prepared in the most artistic manner to suit the taste of the most fastidious. We know of no place where young ladies and gentlemen can spend an hour or so more comfortably than at Ratliff's Oyster Saloon.

There has been a great quantity of grain brought to the city within the last few days. Our streets have pretty well been filled with wagons.

John Webb & Son have now their large carriage manufactory, with its new steam works, in full operation and they are getting up some very fine carriages, buggies and wagons. From the Carrollton Gazette:

Our Markets
FLOUR - Double extra at $13.00, extra at $12.00, superfine at $10.25 to $10.50, fine at $9.00.

CORN - yellow, at 85c, mixed 79 to 90c, white 82 to 83. OATS - Tending downward. Ranging from 63 to 68c.

POULTRY - Dressed geese, $7 to $8 per dozen, dressed chickens, $3.75 to $5 per dozen. HYDES - Steady, at 18c a lb. for flint, and 9c for green. COFFEE - Choice Rio, 26c. Fair and prime, 22c to 23c. Lower grades, 21c to 22c. SORGHUM - 40 to 50c per gal.

It is said the chief Boston hotel-keepers intend closing their establishments if the liquor laws are enforced. They think such a course would hurt the city more than it would themselves.

Miss Bacon also discovered that Shakespeare did not write his plays; Richard III has been found to have been a handsome man, comely in person and amiable in character; while the ancient Pharisees have recently been rehabilitated by one of their admirers, and show to be a most praiseworthy set of modest, unassuming, pious patriots.

He said he'd be around this week to make arrangements to either give them to the library, or allow the staff to photocopy them.

Thursday morning Ankrum brought the papers and the box around to the Journal Courier office and Johnny Martin took the picture shown above.

He said that he was going to take the papers to the trustees of First United Presbyterian church to see if they wanted any of them for their archives. I told him that the only items the Illinois State Historical Library didn't have that would interest it was Vol. 1, No. 1, of The Academy Review and The People's Preacher newspaper.

At Windham, Connecticut, a couple last week applied for a divorce after only a fortnight of wedded life. The judge refused their request, saying that they hadn't yet given matrimony a fair trial.

A Scotchman went to a lawyer once for advice, and detailed the circumstances of the case. "Have you told the facts precisely as they occurred?" asked the lawyer. "Oh, ay, sir," rejoined he; "I thought it best to tell ye the truth; you can put lies into it yourself."

At a church where there was a call for a minister, two candidates appeared whose names were Adam and Low. The latter preached an elegant discourse in the forenoon from the text, "Adam, where art thou?" In the afternoon, Adam preached from these words, "Lo, here am I."

It is said that President Johnson's application for a life insurance was recently refused on the grounds that the company could not make out his policy.

FOREIGN

January, 1867

We illustrated last week the restitution of the head of Cardinal Richelieu to the rest of his remains in the Sorbonne. It is singular how many tombs of distinguished men have been violated by lovers of relics. Recently in France it was discovered that the tombs of Voltaire and Rousseau, in the Pantheon, did not contain the bodies, but had been rifled by religious bigots long ago. Milton's head was also taken by a curiosity collector, and at a recent auction sale in England, a skull, mounted in gold, which was stolen from a temple in China during the last war, was sold as being the skull of Confucius.

The iron trade of England is suffering greatly from the competition of Belgium, where wages are lower. In view of the recent frightful colliery explosions in England, it is asked if the mines could not be lighted by electric lights.

Allerton Trust Farms Average 120 Bu. Corn
URBANA - The 1966 corn crop on the University of Illinois' Allerton Trust Farms averaged 120.4 bushels per acre on 1,115.1 acres, reports Donald G. Smith, U. of I. agricultural economist and manager of the University Trust Farms.

This average yield was 16.2 bushels per acre below last year's record yield of 136.6 bushels per acre, a decline of 11.9 percent. But the 10-year average yield increased from 106.1 bushels per acre for the 1956-1965 period to 108.4 bushels per acre for the 1957-1966 period. During the 10-year period, a total of 11,662.3 acres have been planted to corn for a total yield of 1,199,180 bushels.

Considering the rainfall distribution during the 1966 growing season, it has generally been a good year on the University Trust Farms, Smith said. Wheat, soybeans and corn yielded 54.7, 37.5 and 120.4 bushels per acre, respectively. The wheat yield was second only to the record production in 1963; the soybean yield was the third highest since the farms were acquired in 1946; and the corn yield ranked fourth for the 10-year period.

Dr. Harold D. Loden, currently manager of Paymaster Seeds, will be director of seed research for the division.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK
SOYBEAN PRICES ARE UPSIDE DOWN

The soybean price structure has been upside down in recent weeks. The unusual market is saying that present prices for beans will not be sustained throughout the year.

In a normal early winter market the July futures are several cents higher than January futures. The difference is caused by, and is about equal to, the cost of owning and storing the beans from January to July. For example, a little more than a year ago, July futures were 7 cents higher than January.

Recently the prices were inverted. July futures were 7 cents under January. This indicates that farmers have been holding tight, expecting still higher prices. But speculators, who establish prices for the more distant futures, think that prices will be lower—and have bet their money accordingly.

Time will tell which group is right. Dr. Tom Hieronymus, professor of grain marketing at the University of Illinois, says that the last time a condition like the present one occurred was in 1944-45. Bean prices had risen strongly in the previous spring and summer, so many farmers held their 1954 crop. Their holding kept prices high until the late winter, but prices trended downward after that. (That is no guarantee, however, that prices will decline this year.)

Strong Meal Demand
It appears that farmers have been selling soybeans rather slowly. At the same time there is a strong immediate demand for soybean products, especially soybean meal. Our livestock and poultry producers need about 30,000 tons of soybean meal each day. Foreign buyers probably want another 18,000 tons, mostly in the form of soybeans.

The daily demand for 48,000 tons of soybean meal is equivalent to 2 million bushels of soybeans. This need must be met each day. Livestock and poultry men, in the U.S. and abroad, bid up for the meal. Processors bid up for the beans.

Recent prices for soybean meal were $85 a ton, 10 higher than a year before. At this price the value of soybean meal from a bushel of soybeans was $2.02. The oil was worth $1.12. The value of meal and oil combined was $3.14 compared with $3.01 a year earlier. At the same time the price of beans was $2.96 compared with $2.74 the year before.

Many Possibilities
There is no way of telling what buyers will be willing to pay for soybean meal next month, next spring, or next summer. That will depend upon a lot of things, including the number of livestock and poultry to be fed and the prices that producers get for hogs, cattle, broilers, eggs, and milk.

Hog prices have dropped 30 percent from last year, and while numbers now in feedlots are up about 9 percent, production is leveling off. Broiler prices are down some 10 percent, and production has flattened out. Cattle prices are off 10 percent from a year ago, and the number to be fed has stopped increasing. Milk prices, to be different, are up 12 percent, while the production of milk is about the same as last year.

Prices of feeds other than soybean meal are also up. Corn is up 10 percent, sorghum grain 8 percent, cottonseed 25 percent, and bran 30 percent.

"Religions" Is Tuesday Club Program Topic

Tuesday club members were entertained the afternoon of January 17th at the home of Mrs. John Sommers. A delightful dessert course was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Samuel Darley, president, opened the meeting and conducted the business session. Reports were given by Mrs. Harold Patterson and Mrs. Ray Steinheimer.

Presented by Mrs. Leon Stewart, Mrs. Clarendon Smith gave an interesting program on Lesser Known Religions. In the history of all our churches one finds a variety of beliefs. There are new and growing sects, as well as the so-called old beat older ones. The quest of each pursuit is remarkably alike as each has discovered something and each religion has contributed something and each has fulfilled something in man's urge to worship.

A social hour followed the program. Mrs. Gene Chamberlain was a guest. There were 26 members present.

SKI BUFFS WILL LOOK THEIR BEST when they take to the slopes well-sweated. Here, suggested by the National Hand Knitting Yarn Association, is a long, lean sweater, perfectly in tune with skinny ski pants. It's a tri-colored pull with mock turtleneck and patterned in a geometric motif. Knit in a knitting worsted using three colors and combining a stockinette and geometric pattern stitch, the sweater is handsome on or off the slopes. Snappy sweater to knit yourself (inset) is in three colors of knitting worsted. Use a stockinette stitch with a pattern stitch border on both sleeves and the body.

'Doughnut Dollies' Have Big Role In Viet

Editor's Note—Ninety Red Cross "Doughnut Dollies" are at the front in Vietnam, helping on, "to get them to forget about the war. It's a long day, seven days a week, for girls like Glenna Shannon. And for her, wedding bells are louder than the artillery.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
PLEIKU, South Vietnam (AP)—It has been two wars since American Red Cross girls like Glenna Shannon served those soggy doughnuts and awful coffee to the troops, but they still can't escape the designation "Doughnut Dolly."

In Vietnam, the Dollies are stationed right in the boonies with the line outfits. As recreation specialists they carry on a rigorous schedule of entertaining the fighting men in their base camps and, when security permits during combat breaks in the field.

Glenna, a blue-eyed, brown-haired charmer from New York City, came to Vietnam five months ago and already has won the hearts of two of the best line outfits: the 1st Infantry Division at Di An and the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) at An Khe.

Now stationed in the Central Highlands at Pleiku, the 22-year-old economics major has moved out of a tent for the first time. She now lives with four other Doughnut Dollies in a rundown villa that at least boasts electricity for a few hours a day and an occasional hot shower.

Glenna's day begins at 7 a.m., with the artillery firing in the distance and the helicopters hurrying men off to war. A quick breakfast and a jeep ride to a line company finds her already hard at work, conducting 55-minute recreation programs of a quiz shows, word games and talk-fests. Her job is to "turn the troops on," to get them to forget about the war for a few precious moments, to talk about themselves and their families, to remember what it was like back home when pretty girls were everywhere. There are 90 such recreation specialists working with the troops.

On any day, seven days a week, Glenna and her sister Dollies each conduct seven such audience participation shows and still find time to visit the hospital wards, chat with the guys in the mess lines, do the frug and the mashed potato in the beer tents and NCO clubs, help the boys write letters, make tape recordings and pose for endless pictures with them.

And before the lights go out at curfew, Glenna must still squeeze in time to do her hair, spruce up her blue uniform and perform all the other daily miracles that make men enjoy girls who enjoy being girls. The Dollies pride themselves on keeping up a feminine front amidst the mud and the dust of Vietnam.

The war is never far away, but Glenna has learned to shut it out when she is performing, even if she sometimes has to shout to be heard above the tympany of the 175mm howitzers.

Despite the hectic daily schedule and moving about the country Glenna has managed, in between giving her heart to whole infantry divisions, to give her secret heart to one special soldier boy.

Two weeks ago she accepted an engagement ring from 1st Lt. Bruce Terrell, a fellow New Yorker who is a pilot assigned to the 1st Infantry Division. In March in New York City, at a fashionable wedding that will be light years away from the grime of Vietnam, the delightful Doughnut Dolly will become Mrs. Bruce Terrell. For the men left behind in the field, it may be their biggest single setback since the war began.

Problems Aboard Spaceship Earth

The space age has made us conscious of the fact that we are all astronauts, whether we want to be or not.

The earth itself is a great space vehicle tracing a regular orbit about the sun, while the sun follows an even vaster course through the galaxy. Our ship has a limited amount of room, a limited amount of air, water, land and other essentials to life.

One of the most challenging problems that will be encountered in long voyages in manmade spaceships is how to convert waste products back into usable form. The identical problem is beginning to confront earth-bound man as his ship gets more crowded.

The trouble is we have never been called upon to think about it before. We are accustomed to just throwing things away and letting nature take its course. But nature is slow and has a limited capacity for absorbing man's waste products. The consequence is the increasing pollution and unsightliness of our environment.

The solution, says one scientist, is "total recycling."

This is already being done to a limited extent, notes Dr. Athelstan Spilhaus, director of the University of Minnesota Institute of Technology. Iron ore dust is being recycled back into steel mills; some cities are converting garbage into fertilizer.

Direct Popular Vote

As the 25th Amendment regulating presidential succession enters the last lap toward formal approval, another dealing with presidential election appears about to start its course through Congress and the states. A special commission of the American Bar Association has proposed abolishing the electoral college and amending the Constitution to provide for direct popular election of the president and vice president. There is a fair chance that, under this new impetus, Congress will enact such an amendment and send it to the states for ratification.

The electoral college system is in growing disfavor among political scientists and other observers. For years there has been a rising interest in at least modifying this odd institution to make it more responsive to the popular will. Junking the electoral college entirely, and thenceforth filling the two top national offices by direct vote, is arguably the best way to deal with the problem. Historically there has been one strong argument against popular election of the president and vice president. This is that popular choice might weaken the two-party system and lead to the creation of numerous parties. The Bar Association group would get around that by requiring that the winning candidate receive at least 40 per cent of the popular vote, with a runoff election between the two top contenders if neither won 40 per cent of the vote. This appears to deal with the difficulty.

But we have yet to apply the principle to things like stoves, refrigerators, washing machines, automobiles — the stuff we "consume" and then, shortly after paying off the bank loan, dispose of as junk.

"Junk is a word that epitomizes the immorality and ignorance of not recycling," Spilhaus told a symposium on "Preserving the Environment" held at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in Washington, D.C.

"The automobile is the most conspicuous example. It should be designed at the start with its eventual reclamation in mind."

The idea is not conservation. There is no present danger of our running out of raw materials or of the ability to devise substitutes for them.

The idea is to save "the one natural resource that we cannot reinvent once we destroy it, and that is our natural environment."

The immediate danger may be more psychological than it is physical. "Filthy environments," says Spilhaus, "may drive us nuts before they make us physically sick."

No spaceship crew of the future would last long if it tolerated a dirty ship. The same thing, we are beginning to realize, applies to the human race and spaceship earth.

Juniors Plan Prom Events

By ANDREA HEISS
Plans for the annual 1967 Senior Prom and Banquet are in full swing under the direction of Diane Silva and Willy Coulas. The JHS Junior Class is planning to hold the prom Friday, April 28, at the Blackhawk Restaurant.

Though the juniors had formerly planned to hold the banquet and dance at MacMurray, the date and place had to be changed because of a conflicting event with MacMurray's calendar. With the assistance of Miss Howard, the junior advisor, and Mrs. Savage, the assistant advisor, the juniors selected the Blackhawk since it can fulfill the needs of the junior class. A hot buffet dinner will be served, after which the traditional speeches will be presented. According to the juniors, the seniors will be honored by "a completely different" gift. Last year the junior class presented members of the Class of '66 with a JHS ring attached to a necklace for the girls and an inscribed tie clip for the boys. The gifts, which will remain unknown until the Banquet, have already been ordered.

The entire second floor of the restaurant will be re-arranged to accommodate a band, a dancing area, and seating, after the banquet. The prom committees have already been formed and the flowers and table decorations have been ordered. However, Miss Howard and Mr. Hayter, the JHS orchestra director, are still uncertain about the band.

According to tradition, the theme of the 1967 Senior Prom will be kept secret until the night of the dance.

Whatever happened to the old statement, "A man is as good as his word?" Early in this new year we might take a fresh look at the problem. When the promises that men live by become casual, then the very fabric of our civilization is in danger.

When the late Adlai Stevenson, then U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, was accused of being a "soft compromiser," there were immediate overtones. Everyone denied everything, and yet the man's abilities and influence were tarnished.

It was not just a matter of whether it was true or not; it was the manner in which it was done.

What happens to public influence and a judgment of integrity if a man is tried by unidentified "intensity"? What happens to personal reputation when petty gossip is tolerated?

Or consider athletes, college-bred, and adept enough to be considered for professional jobs, who simultaneously sign two or three contracts. Doesn't a college graduate know the meaning of his own signature on a contract?

We have just celebrated notable religious festivals and come into another year which will exhibit the measure of those festivals. If what we have done publicly has merit, then it will be expressed in a new birth of the integrity of a word.

If perjury becomes a casual happening, our legal structure is undermined.

• If personal lying becomes an accepted procedure, then our daily relationships are endangered.

• If personal debts and financial obligations are assumed without a sense of responsibility, our economic future is endangered.

dangered.

• If there is no sense of conscience about speaking the truth, then personal promises and public treaties become a mockery.

Our religious faith has a validity not only because of its public ceremony but also because of the personal commitment of individuals and groups.

It is at the point of the identification of man's ideals, hopes, ambitions and desires in allegiance with his religious faith that the whole purpose of its existence becomes clear. God is as good as His word; godliness is the expression of this ideal.

In contrast to the meaningless nihilism of so much of cynical relationships there is the blessed little prayer written by John Baillie, which should be renewed throughout this year of 1967:

Lord grant me: The grace of strict truthfulness; The grace of charity; that I may refrain from hasty judgment; The grace of silence that I may refrain from hasty speech; The grace of forgiveness toward all who have wronged me; Forgive me Lord, the unkind word and the unkind silence.

U.S. Must Bolster Japan, Make Clear Its Role In Asia

By RAY CRONLEY

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

TOKYO (NEA) — Action must be taken now to prevent serious trouble in 1970 over renewal of the U.S.-Japan security treaty which guarantees Japan's defense and provides the United States with key Far East bases.

Without this treaty, which gives Japan a nuclear umbrella, Tokyo could swing sharply neutralist or go into nuclear warhead production itself.

Neither prospect is inviting. The pro-business pro-American governments that have been in power since the end of World War II have grown steadily weaker. The party in power is split with dissensions and rivalries, torn by the corruption of officeholders and weakened by the growth of a small, vociferous, highly nationalistic Buddhist party, ultraright-wing at home and isolationist abroad.

The downfall of the Liberal party, weak as it is, would bring chaos. The left-wing opposition is even weaker in leadership and just as susceptible to corruption. It is opposed to U.S. policy in Asia.

teachers have heavily infiltrated Japan's high schools. They turn out increasing numbers of Red students. College and university freshmen classes are heavy with these brainwashed youth. These young men are the backbone of many of the Communist-led antigovernment and anti-U.S. demonstrations.

This situation provides a happy hunting ground for the Communist dream of an anticommunist active front in which the Reds would play a prominent role.

Severe economic problems further complicate the picture. The strength of the Liberal Democrat party is in the countryside, but Japanese are moving into the cities in increasing numbers.

The cost of living has shot up in Japan. The government party subsidizes food to hold prices down and to protect the farmer, but the Liberal Democrat party's sible the creation of larger, chief source of support. Despite the subsidies, prices continue to rise.

Higher subsidies would upset the budget. But city people know it costs twice as much to produce rice in Japan's small plots, steps to clean up the corruption, aid in making internal improvements.

farms. They clamor for greater imports of cheap U.S. rice. But an influx of this low-cost food would ruin Japan's farmers.

The administration hopes to solve these problems with two mammoth drives:

—An aid program to encourage building new homes throughout Japan.

—A superhighway program that would cover Japan with a net of trunk roads.

The houses and highways would encourage the building of factories through rural Japan, thus slow the flight to the cities and provide small farmers with part-time factory work to supplement their incomes and make possible lower rice prices.

These rural factories, it is hoped, would encourage more farming into industry, yet stay close to the land, yet stay close to the land, yet stay close to the land.

The Liberal Democrat party's sible the creation of larger, chief source of support. Despite the subsidies, prices continue to rise.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

What player in organized baseball hit the most home runs in one season? Not Roger Maris, with 61 in a 162-game season in 1961. Not Babe Ruth, with 60 in a 154-game season in 1927. The all-time record holder, according to The World Almanac, is Joe Bauman, who hit 72 round-trippers in 1954 in 138 games in the Longhorn League. Nine other minor league players also have reached or exceeded the magic number of 60 homers in a season.

It will have to retire a good chunk of its tired leadership and draw in young, vigorous men with imagination and honesty. The government will have to get management of the schools back into the hands of the school principals and university presidents and out of the domination of politically oriented teacher associations.

The United States must act now to give the average Japanese citizen a firmer understanding of our role and purposes in Asia. It must give the Japanese government technical aid in making internal improvements.

Blind Still Getting Help In Nigeria

KANO, Nigeria (AP) — The massacres have killed some and frightened away others. Their numbers are diminished. But still they come, groping, haltingly, some led by children in worn robes and bare feet. Some are children themselves. They are the blind or nearly blind. Daily they line up for treatment at the Kano Eye Hospital of the Sudan Interior Mission outside the walls of this ancient Moslem trade city. Established in 1943, it was the first hospital exclusively treating eyes in the Western Sudan belt.

Immediately south of the Sahara Desert, a land where blindness is a way of life. About 10 per cent of the population in the area from Mali to the northern Cameroon is blind or nearly blind. In northern Nigeria alone there are an estimated three million persons who have lost some sight, nearly a million who have lost it permanently. The United States, with more than six times the population of Northern Nigeria, has 400,000 totally blind. A few months ago, about 500 persons daily waited for treatment at the clinic. The 130 beds in the wards were filled with others awaiting or recovering from surgery that restored the sight of many.

In late September, Northerners turned on Eastern Iboes living in the North, killing thousands throughout the region. Hundreds died in Kano. The Sabon Gari, the strangers' quarters outside the mud walls of Kano, now is virtually deserted. About 30,000 once lived there. The hospital is in Sabon Gari and drew most of its patients from the quarter.

The wards now are empty. Most of the Nigerian nurses and orderlies have fled to the East. The American surgeon returned home. The hospital staff hopes for a replacement by the end of this month.

About 100 patients now appear daily at the clinic. Many have walked miles — in some cases, days — from the bush country. Many are children. "After they see that their native doctors can do nothing," said Delta Bond, 48, of Muscatine, Iowa, a nurse in Kano since 1944, "parents bring them here as a last resort. Often they come too late. It makes you sick."

Smallpox and measles blind many of the children. The regional government is mounting an American-assisted immunization program to wipe out both diseases. The children's sight is weakened by poor nutrition and sanitation in their villages where Miss Bond believes the eyesight of many could be saved. "I sometimes think we're working on the wrong end here," she said.

Patients appear frequently with glaucoma or cataracts. The simuliun fly, a black gnat, introduces infection — a using worms into the body where they attack the eyes. Syphilis causes considerable blindness, too.

The hospital has been most successful in saving sight threatened by the virus disease trachoma which causes irritation, scarring and contraction of the upper eyelid, a condition which eventually scars the surface of the eye each time the afflicted person blinks.

A simple operation has been perfected at the hospital. A nurse or medical technician can do it although it once was described as a major operation. It involves relaxing the contracted lid by slicing a piece of skin from it and propping it with splints made from applicator sticks and bicycle tire valve tubing. Among its perfectors at the hospital was Dr. M. Douglas Hirsch, 55, of Wheaton, Ill., who returned to the United States four years ago.

Miss Bond said 12 to 15 operations a day were completed at the hospital. Occasionally, a blind beggar refuses an operation because he has become accustomed to using his handicap to earn a living. Most patients — predominantly Moslem — who come to the Protestant-operated hospital submit to the operation and respond to its success with "Na gahdey," which means "I thank you" in Hausa, the most widely spoken language in the north. Churches throughout the world support the hospital, which now charges for the operation and other services it once provided free. "Most people pay," said Miss Bond. "There is more money around now. Those who can't pay still get treatment."

The First Baptist church of Muscatine provides $1,800 for Miss Bond's support. Half the annual sum goes for furlough and retirement pay. The rest is her year's spending money — her house, food and other living expenses in Kano are paid by the hospital — at a rate of less than $80 a month.

"We're not out here to make money," she says, "or else we wouldn't be here."

mond. South allowed this to run to Eric's queen and Eric led another heart. South ruffed in dummy, discarded a diamond on the ace of clubs and led a diamond for a finesse. The finesse lost to Eric's king and because the defense still had to make two trump tricks, South was down one.

At the other tables, South was allowed to play two spades and with the play going the same way, these South players made the same eight tricks for a plus of 110 points instead of a minus of 100 points.

These small swings don't amount to much in a rubber bridge game but in IMP competition they actually determine who wins and who loses.

In the IMP scale a swing of 170-210 points is worth 5 IMPs. A swing of 750 points which represents the difference between a vulnerable game and a slam is only worth 13 IMPs so that three such part-score swings more than balance a missed slam.

TRIANGULAR SHAPE HIGHLIGHTS SPRING FASHION CREATIONS

ROME (AP)—A triangular shape fanning out from tiny shoulders was the central fashion line that emerged for spring as Italian showings ended here Friday.

The important new silhouette means coats that spin; princess dresses that flare away to the hem; pretty, high waists softly gathered under the bust, and caftans, djellababs and all the rest of the Arab wardrobe of loose flowing robes.

It should make life comfortable this coming season.

Today's hand shows Eric Murray at work again. We approve of his double of one spade but sort of shudder at his two no-trump call. On the other hand, Eric's style is to bid when it is his turn and his two no-trump bid produced fine dividends.

Sammy Kehela in the East went to three hearts and if South had only passed even Sammy would have had to work to hold his loss to down two. Down two undoubled and not vulnerable would not have represented any real loss but if South had doubled three hearts, Eric's two no-trump call would have been a real loser.

As it was the bid produced a five International Match Point profit for the Canadian star.

South won the opening heart lead and returned the suit. East won and shifted to a dia-

Anna Krupps
Of Mt. Sterling
Dies At Age 79

MT. STERLING — Mrs. Anna Krupps, 79, a lifelong Mt. Sterling area resident, passed away at her home at 9:30 p.m. Thursday.

She was born in Brown County July 22, 1887; daughter of Robert and Mollie Moncton Kerr. She was married to Alfred Krupps, who died Jan. 29, 1945.

Surviving are two sons, LeVerne Krupps and A. J. Krupps, both of Mt. Sterling; three daughters: Mrs. Rosemary Howell of Plainville, Mrs. Florence Carney, Chicago, and Mrs. Regina Ruff, Quincy, 17 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

One brother and four sisters preceded her in death.

Mrs. Krupps was a member of St. Mary's Catholic church where requiem mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Monday, Rev. Leonard Rathgeb officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Sterling Catholic cemetery.

Friends may call at the Hufnagel Funeral Home, Mt. Sterling, Sunday and until time of services Monday. The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home.

Trucker Hurt
In Accident
At Gravel Pit

MT. STERLING — Charles Campbell, 43-year-old Mt. Sterling trucker, is reported in "serious condition" at Blessing hospital in Quincy with injuries sustained Thursday in an accident at the Calender Gravel pit, near Valley City.

Authorities said Campbell's parked truck slid down an incline and struck him as he stood talking to another driver, Gene Dixon of rural Chambersburg. Campbell was pinned between the two trucks. He received emergency treatment at Illinois hospital in Pittsfield and was then transferred to Blessing hospital's intensive care ward.

Orioles' Sweep
Voted Top Upset
Of Sports Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles' four-game sweep over the Los Angeles Dodgers in the World Series easily rated the sports upset of the year in a nationwide Associated Press poll released Thursday.

The Orioles drew 267 first-place votes and a total of 971 points from sports writers and sportscasters on the basis of three points for first place, two for second and three for third.

Texas Western's victory over Kentucky in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball final last March was second, far behind with 363 points, including 39 top votes.

Brazil's upset of the United States in Davis Cup zone play attracted 25 first-place votes and 218 points with Bill Casper's comeback to beat Arnold Palmer in the U.S. Open Golf Tournament fourth with 22 top votes and 216 points.

The Orioles, despite a runaway with the American League pennant, rated the underdog against Dodger pitching in the Series. However, Baltimore unveiled some sparkling mound work of its own as reliever Moe Drabowsky blanked the Dodgers for the last 1-3 innings in the opener and Jim Palmer, Wally Bunker and Dave McNally followed with shutouts that set a World Series mark of 33-1 straight innings without a run.

Texas Western, ranked No. 3, conquered top-ranked Kentucky 74-65 in the final and deprived the Wildcats and Adolph Rupp of a fifth national title.

The United States Davis Cup team was the heavy favorite against Brazil in inter-zone play in November, particularly after Dennis Ralston won the first singles and he and Cliff Richey captured the doubles for a 2-1 lead.

But Thomas Koch crushed Richey 6-1, 7-5, 6-1 to tie the score at 2-2 and Jose Adison Mandarino surprised Ralston 4-6, 6-4, 6-1 to give Brazil the best-of-five series.

Casper, trailing by seven strokes in the final round to Palmer, closed with a rush that resulted in a 72-hole tie, and then beat Palmer in a playoff.

QUICK-WASH FOR PLANES was developed by the Naval Air Systems Command after low-level submarine patrol aircraft were having severe problems with corrosion from salt. Salt deposits had been accumulating on aircraft surfaces and engine intakes after low-level flights, so planes now pass through a rinse system immediately after coming back from patrols.

Richest U.S. Families Plan Red Trade Bridge

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rockefeller brothers and Cyrus S. Eaton Jr., representing two of the nation's richest families, plan to build a better trade bridge between the Western Hemisphere and Communist countries in Eastern Europe.

The financial alliance, linking Wall Street and the Midwest, was disclosed recently and confirmed by Richard S. Aldrich of the Rockefeller interests.

It will involve cooperation between the International Basic Economy Corp., controlled by the Rockefeller brothers, and Tower International, Inc., headed by Eaton, a Cleveland industrialist.

Aldrich, a vice president and director of IBEC, said his organization's objective "is to improve the standard of living of the peoples of the world."

"An initiative that creates a commercial and industrial dialogue between the East and the West cannot help but contribute to the trade exchange plan — encompassing the United States, Canada and Latin America — brings together the enormous investment skills of the Rockefellers and the almost unique relationship the Eatons have with the Soviet bloc."

Cyrus S. Eaton Sr., long an advocate of closer ties between the United States and the Soviet Union, has cultivated some support behind the iron curtain by his trips to Moscow. He has entertained Soviet leaders, including former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

A Box Of Historical Items

When Leslie Ankrum of Morgan Builders, Inc., began the job of tearing down the Central Baptist church edifice, old State Street Presbyterian church, he asked his crew of workmen to keep their eyes peeled for a hallowed out stone.

"I've been told that there's a box of records in the front wall, somewhere. It seems that it's not where such a box is usually found, in the cornerstone."

Ankrum began to think that he had received some misinformation, until around knocking off time Wednesday afternoon when one of the men pointed out a rock with a chiseled slot in it.

Then everybody started looking for the box, and under a pile of brick, stone and mortar Herman Mohlenbrock of Beards-town pulled out a galvanized sheet iron box, about six inches wide, ten inches long and four inches deep, soldered shut.

"Here she is," Mohlenbrock shouted.

Interesting Material
That night Ankrum opened the box and found it contained 31 different items. On the very top was a handwritten note on a printed letterhead of the First National Bank of Jacksonville.

This is what he read:
No. 511
Edward Scott, President.
John Traube, V. President.

F. G. Farrell, Cashier
W. F. Epler, A. Cashier
FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Jacksonville, Ill.

The box in which this is enclosed was put in the walls of "State Street Pres. Church" this day by F. G. Farrell, assisted by Silas Terry, supt. of the contractor of the building, and E. P. Mount, brick mason.

Mr. Hugh Wilson is the contractor and builder of the new church - Contract Price, $16,500 cash and old Lots. $16,100 - total, $32,600. Dr. Carriel, Judge Edward Scott, Hon. E. L. This building was declared the best in the state when it was dedicated in 1867, but it burned to the ground Sept. 26, 1884.

It took a long time to build this church, for the cornerstone was laid Aug. 4, 1864.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:
The Union School House, five miles north-west of town, took fire from the stove flue, on Thursday last, while the school was in session, and was burned to the ground. The furniture and books were saved. Loss estimated at $1,200. No insurance.

The snow storm that swept over the county a few days since, left its fleecy mark in this vicinity. Severe cold did not as usual follow the fall of snow, and during the day and evening of Monday, the ear was constantly filled with the merry jingling of bells and the shouts and laughter of youth, beauty and happiness on runners.

We learn that the members of Union Fire Company No. 1, of this city, contemplate applying for an act of incorporation at the present session of the legislature. Such incorporation will make the company a permanent institution, enabling it to hold property and exercise other corporate functions.

The proceedings in the election contest (Mayfield vs. Moore) were temporarily suspended on Tuesday afternoon, to enable Judge Whitlock to tie the marriage knot for a happy couple in waiting. The Judge, although an inveterate specimen of the confirmed Bach, rather likes these little jobs, and does them up in brief and dignified style.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoisian:

Go to Fred Ratliff's Oyster Saloon if you want good fresh oyster soup, where you can have them prepared in the most artistic manner to suit the taste of the most fastidious. We know of no place where young ladies and gentlemen can spend an hour or so more comfortable than at Ratliff's Oyster Saloon.

There has been a great quantity of grain brought to the city within the last few days. Our streets have pretty well been filled with wagons.

John Webb & Son have now their large carriage manufactory, with its new steam works, in full operation and they are getting up some very fine carriages, buggies and wagons.

The Memphis Post has discovered that General Forrest was not instrumental in the massacre of Fort Pillow. Miss Bacon also discovered that Shakespeare did not write his plays; Richard III has been found to have been a handsome man, comely in person and amiable in character; while the ancient Pharisees have recently been rehabilitated by one of their admirers, and show to be a most praiseworthy set of modest, unassuming, pious patriots.

Mr. Peabody has presented $20,000 to the Massachusetts Historical Society, as a fund for the publication of their proceedings and the preservation of their historical portraits. The society passed the accustomed.

He said he'd be around this week to make arrangements to either give them to the library, or allow the staff to photocopy them.

QUERY INFORMATION
WANTED. As seen above the letterheads of the First National Bank of Jacksonville were numbered. Have you ever heard of this? Ever seen it before?

What a world of speculation the idea churns up. Why was it dropped? There would be no shortage of "well trained file clerks," whoever they are, because anybody could file by number, just like "zipcode" enables anybody to sort mail.

Know anything about numbered letterheads? If so, please communicate.

Mr. Horace Perkins was fatally injured on the morning of the 13th of last December, by the careless management of the ferryboat Communipaw, he being thrown upon the deck with great violence, in consequence of the boat running into the bridge. At the inquest held recently upon the remains, it appears that nobody was to blame. The engineer and pilot could not be found, both having left the employ of the Company; so the jury censured them, which would appear to have great influence in making ferry traveling safer.

At a church where there was a call for a minister, two candidates appeared whose names were Adam and Low. The latter preached an elegant discourse in the forenoon from the text, "Adam, where art thou?" In the afternoon, Adam preached from these words, "Lo, here am I."

January, 1867
We illustrated last week the restitution of the head of Cardinal Richelieu to the rest of his remains in the Sorbonne. It is singular how many tombs of distinguished men have been violated by lovers of relics. Recently in France it was discovered that the tombs of Voltaire and Rousseau, in the Pantheon, did not contain the bodies, but had been rifled by religious bigots long ago. Milton's head was also taken by a curiosity collector, and at a recent auction sale in England, a skull, mounted in gold, which was stolen from a temple in China during the last war, was sold as being the skull of Confucius.

The iron trade of England is suffering greatly from the competition of Belgium, where wages are lower.

Seed Firm Sold To Anderson, Clayton Co.

Anderson Clayton & Co., Houston, Texas, worldwide food manufacturing, vegetable oil seed processing and coffee and cotton merchandising organization, Thursday announced it has signed an agreement to purchase the common stock of Tomco Genetic Giant, Inc. of Belmont, Iowa. The announcement was made jointly by T. J. Barlow, president of Anderson, Clayton and R. B. Thompson, president of Tomco.

Tomco and its subsidiary, Tomco Seed, Inc., are engaged primarily in the production and marketing of hybrid seed corn in Iowa, Illinois and Nebraska. The seed is currently being distributed in 24 states. Tomco also produces grain and forage sorghum in Nebraska and merchandises alfalfa seed.

Barlow said Thompson will be general manager of Tomco for Anderson, Clayton and will also manage the firm's Paymaster sorghum and cottonseed operation in Texas and Kansas. The units will be a part of Anderson, Clayton's Agricultural Products Division, Abilene, Texas, under the direction of Division President Ben R. Barbee.

Dr. Harold D. Loden, currently manager of Paymaster Seeds, will be director of seed research for the division.

Allerton Trust Farms Average 120 Bu. Corn

URBANA - The 1966 corn crop on the University of Illinois' Allerton Trust Farms averaged 120.4 bushels per acre on 1,115.1 acres, reports Donald G. Smith, U. of I. agricultural economist and manager of the University Trust Farms.

This average yield was 16.2 bushels per acre below last year's record yield of 136.6 bushels per acre, a decline of 11.9 percent. But the 10-year average yield increased from 106.1 bushels per acre for the 1956-1965 period to 108.4 bushels per acre for the 1957-1966 period. During the 10-year period, a total of 11,062.3 acres have been planted to corn for a total yield of 1,199,180 bushels.

Considering the rainfall distribution during the 1966 growing season, it has generally been a good year on the University Trust Farms, Smith said. Wheat, soybeans and corn yielded 54.7, 37.5 and 120.4 bushels per acre, respectively. The wheat yield was second only to the record production in 1963; the soybean yield was the third highest since the farms were acquired in 1946; and the corn yield ranked fourth for the 10-year period.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

SOYBEAN PRICES ARE UPSIDE DOWN

The soybean price structure has been upside down in recent weeks. The unusual market is saying that present prices for beans will not be sustained throughout the year.

In a normal early winter market the July futures are several cents higher than January futures. The difference is caused by, and is about equal to, the cost of owning and storing the beans from January to July. For example, a little more than a year ago, July futures were 7 cents higher than January.

Recently the prices were inverted. July futures were 7 cents under January. This indicates that farmers have been holding tight, expecting still higher prices. But speculators, who establish prices for the more distant futures, think that prices will be lower—and have bet their money accordingly.

Time will tell which group is right.

Dr. Tom Hieronymus, professor of grain marketing at the University of Illinois, says that the last time a condition like the present one occurred was in 1954-55. Bean prices had risen strongly in the previous spring and summer, so many farmers held their 1954 crop. Their holding kept prices high until the late winter, but prices trended downward after that. (That is no guarantee, however, that prices will decline this year.)

Strong Meal Demand

It appears that farmers have been selling soybeans rather slowly. At the same time there is a strong immediate demand for soybean products, especially soybean meal. Our livestock and poultry producers need about 30,000 tons of soybean meal each day. Foreign buyers probably want another 18,000 tons, mostly in the form of soybeans.

The daily demand for 48,000 tons of soybean meal is equivalent to 2 million bushels of soybeans. This need must be met each day. Livestock and poultry men, in the U.S. and abroad, bid up for the meal. Processors bid up for the beans.

Recent prices for soybean meal were $85 a ton, $10 higher than a year before. At this price the value of soybean meal from a bushel of soybeans was $2.02. The oil was worth $1.12. The value of meal and oil combined was $3.14 compared with $3.01 a year earlier. At the same time the price of beans was $2.96 compared with $2.74 the year before.

Many Possibilities
There is no way of telling what buyers will be willing to pay for soybean meal next month, next spring, or next summer. That will depend upon a lot of things, including the number of livestock and poultry to be fed and the prices that producers get for hogs, cattle, broilers, eggs, and milk.

Hog prices have dropped 30 percent from last year, and while numbers now in feedlots are up about 9 percent, production is leveling off. Broiler prices are down some 10 percent, and production has flattened out. Cattle prices are off 10 percent from a year ago, and the number to be fed has stopped increasing. Milk prices, to be different, are up 12 percent, while the production of milk is about the same as last year.

Prices of feeds other than soybean meal are also up. Corn is up 10 percent, sorghum grain 8 percent, cottonseed 25 percent, and bran 30 percent.

'Doughnut Dollies' Have Big Role In Viet

Editor's Note—Ninety Red Cross "Doughnut Dollies" are at the front in Vietnam, helping "turn the troops on" to forget the war. It's a long day, seven days a week, for girls like Glenna Shannon. And for her, wedding bells are louder than the artillery.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newfeatures Writer

PLEIKU, South Vietnam (AP)—It has been two wars since American Red Cross girls like Glenna Shannon served those soggy doughnuts and awful coffee to the troops, but they still can't escape the designation "Doughnut Dolly."

In Vietnam, the Dollies are stationed right in the boozies with the line outfits. As recreation specialists they carry on a rigorous schedule of entertaining the fighting men in their base camps and, when security permits during combat breaks in the field.

Glenna, a blue-eyed, brown-haired charmer from New York City, came to Vietnam five months ago and already has won the hearts of two of the biggest line outfits: the 1st Infantry Division at Di An and the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) at An Khe.

Now stationed in the Central Highlands at Pleiku, the 22-year-old economics major has moved out of a tent for the first time. She now lives with four other Doughnut Dollies in a rundown villa that at least boasts electricity for a few hours a day and an occasional hot shower.

Glenna's day begins at 7 a.m., with the artillery firing in the distance and the helicopters hurrying men off to war. A quick breakfast and a jeep ride to a line company finds her already hard at work, conducting 55-minute recreation programs of quiz shows, word games and talk-fests.

Her job is to "turn the troops on," to get them to forget about the war for a few precious moments, to talk about themselves and their families, to remember what it was like back home when pretty girls were everywhere. There are 90 such recreation specialists working with the troops.

On any day, seven days a week, Glenna and her sister Dollies each conduct seven such audience participation shows and still find time to visit the hospital wards, chat with the guys in the mess lines, do the frug and the mashed potato in the beer tents and NCO clubs, help the boys write letters, make tape recordings and pose for endless pictures with them.

And before the lights go out at curfew, Glenna must still squeeze in time to do her hair, spruce up her blue uniform and perform all the other daily miracles that make men enjoy girls who enjoy being girls. The Dollies pride themselves on keeping up a feminine front amidst the mud and the dust of Vietnam.

The war is never far away, but Glenna has learned to shut it out when she is performing, even if she sometimes has to shout to be heard above the tympany of the 175mm howitzers.

Despite the hectic daily schedule and moving about the country Glenna has managed, in between giving her heart to whole infantry divisions, to give her secret heart to one special soldier boy.

Two weeks ago she accepted an engagement ring from 1st Lt. Bruce Terrell, a fellow New Yorker who is a pilot assigned to the 1st Infantry Division. In March in New York City, at a of quiz shows, word games and fashionable wedding that will be

KANO, Nigeria (AP) — The massacres have killed some and frightened away others. Their numbers are diminished. But still they come, groping, haltingly, some led by children in worn robes and bare feet. Some are children themselves.

They are the blind or nearly blind. Daily they line up for treatment at the Kano Eye Hospital of the Sudan Interior Mission outside the walls of this ancient Moslem trade city. Established in 1943, it was the first hospital exclusively treating eyes in the Western Sudan belt.

immediately south of the Sahara Desert, a land where blindness is a way of life. About 10 per cent of the population in the area from Mali to the northern Cameroon is blind or nearly blind. In northern Nigeria alone there are an estimated three million persons who have lost some sight, nearly a million who have lost it permanently. The United States, with more than six times the population of Northern Nigeria, has 400,000 totally blind. A few months ago, about 500 persons daily waited for treatment at the clinic. The 130 beds in the wards were filled with others awaiting or recovering from surgery that restored the sight of many.

The wards now are empty. Most of the Nigerian nurses and orderlies have fled to the East. The American surgeon returned home. The hospital staff hopes for a replacement by the end of this month.

About 100 patients now appear daily at the clinic. Many have walked miles — in some cases, days — from the bush country. Many are children.

"After they see that their native doctors can do nothing," said Delta Bond, 48, of Muscatine, Iowa, a nurse in Kano since 1944, "parents bring them here as a last resort. Often they come too late. It makes you sick."

Smallpox and measles blind many of the children. The regional government is mounting an American-assisted immunization program to wipe out both diseases. The children's sight is weakened by poor nutrition and sanitation in their villages where Miss Bond believes the eyesight of many could be saved. "I sometimes think we're working on the wrong end here," she said.

Patients appear frequently with glaucoma or cataracts. The simuliun fly, a black gnat, introduces infection-c-a-u-s-i-n-g worms into the body where they attack the eyes. Syphilis causes considerable blindness, too.

The hospital has been most successful in saving sight threatened by the virus disease trachoma which causes irritation, scarring and contraction of the upper eyelid, a condition which eventually scars the surface of the eye each time the afflicted person blinks.

A simple operation has been perfected at the hospital. A nurse or medical technician can do it although it once was described as a major operation. It involves relaxing the contracted lid by slicing a piece of skin from it and propping it with splints made from applicator sticks and bicycle tire valve tubing. Among its perfectors at the hospital was Dr. M. Douglas Hirsch, 55, of Wheaton, Ill., who returned to the United States four years ago.

Miss Bond said 12 to 15 operations a day were completed at the hospital.

Occasionally, a blind beggar refuses an operation because he has become accustomed to using his handicap to earn a living. Most patients — predominantly Moslem — who come to the Protestant-operated hospital submit to the operation and respond to its success with "Na gohdey," which means "I thank you" in Hausa, the most widely spoken language in the north.

Churches throughout the world support the hospital, which now charges for the operation and other services it once provided free. "Most people pay," said Miss Bond. "There is more money around now." Those who can't pay still get treatment.

The First Baptist church of Muscatine provides $1,800 for Miss Bond's support. Half the annual sum goes for furlough and retirement pay. The rest is her year's spending money — her house, food and other living expenses in Kano are paid by the hospital — at a rate of less than $80 a month.

"We're not out here to make money," she says, "or else we wouldn't be here."

mond. South allowed this to run to Eric's queen and Eric led another heart. South ruffed in dummy, discarded a diamond on the ace of clubs and led a diamond for a finesse. The finesse lost to Eric's king and because the defense still had to make two trump tricks, South was down one.

At the other tables, South was allowed to play two spades and with the play going the same way, these South players made the same eight tricks for a plus of 110 points instead of a minus of 100 points.

These small swings don't amount to much in a rubber bridge game but in IMP competition they actually determine who wins and who loses. In the IMP scale a swing of 170-210 points is worth 5 IMPs. A swing of 750 points which represents the difference between a vulnerable game and a slam is only worth 12 IMPs so that three such part-score swings more than balance a missed slam.

Today's hand shows Eric Murray at work again. We approve of his double of one spade but sort of shudder at his two no-trump call. On the other hand, Eric's style is to bid when it is his turn and his two no-trump bid produced fine dividends.

Sammy Kehela in the East went to three hearts and if South had only passed even Sammy would have had to work to hold his loss to down two. Down two undoubted and not vulnerable would not have represented any real loss but if South had doubled three hearts, Eric's two no-trump call would have been a real loser.

As it was the bid produced a five International Match Point profit for the Canadian star.

South won the opening heart lead and returned the suit. East won and shifted to a dianings," said one fashion buyer enthusiastically. A woman will even be able to cast off her corsetry if it's a question of keeping cool this summer.

But that was not the whole story told by the 32 fashion houses showing more than 2,500 garments.

For those who prefer a trimmer line, pin-neat suits are back in fashion focus. Jackets are brief to give a young, petite look. Skirts are just straight or in a kiltful of pleats.

Hemlines are still way above the knee. Coats are fitted with a feeling of high waist. Belts abound, pencil-slim and shiny in patent leather or broad as obis and importantly buckled.

Women will get their air of mystery for evening, and nothing could be more more-hill than that. Exotic, oriental silks in drifty, drapery gowns take the place of pants.

Everyone's tired of palazzo pajamas. Caftans are more becoming. They come in many versions, with Western poetic license frequently changing their shape. They are bedouin striped or ablaze with vivid prints, braided or sparkling with jewels.

There are sarongs, alluring tuareg veils, and billowing scarves in floaty fabrics. Stripes are still strong, but dots are coming back fast. They come in big blobs or tiny pin-head spots.

Trojans Knock Off Virginia, 62-54

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Bill Meier sparked a smooth-working Triopia outfit to a 62-54 victory over Virginia as the Trojans put down repeated Redbird rallies in the second half and claimed the PMSC Conference Tournament crown, before a packed house at the Rount gymnasium Friday night.

Chandlerville's high-scoring Comets streaked to an easy 88-75 count over Bluffs to capture consolation honors in the 28th annual affair.

Triopia's deliberate offense, featured by sharp passing and the percentage shots, slowed Virginia's high-gear attack down to its pace and the Trojans were actually in command after intermission.

Meier put on a almost a one-man offensive show in the fourth quarter. The 6-1 senior hit eight clutch points, had three assists and hauled down four offensive rebounds in the frame to hold off Virginia threats.

After leading by 36-28 at half-time, Trojan protected the margin through a slow-moving third stanza and kept pace with the charging Redbirds in the closing minutes. Virginia never got closer than five points in the fourth quarter.

7 Of 8 In 4th Period

Triopia swished seven of eight shots in the closing quarter, but had its only trouble with the charity throws. The Trojans missed the front end of seven one-and-one situations in the final period, giving Virginia repeated chances to close the gap.

Meier hit two buckets from the corner and one on an assist pass from Dave Nergenah to open the final chapter as Triopia protected a 41-36 third-quarter final.

Snow, who played a fireman's role in keeping Virginia in contention in the second half, hit a clutch bucket and Gary Babbs a free toss to bring Virginia within 47-42 with 5:00 showing.

Meier collected an assist on a layup bucket by Terry Surratt then drove for a two-pointer himself. Surratt added two charity throws to boost Triopia to a seemingly safe 53-42 count with 3:25 to play.

Final Surge
Steve Graves gave Virginia another shot with four points in at least 30 seconds but Surratt claimed another assist on a Surratt bucket to cut off the surge with 2:40 remaining.

Graves and Snow combined to rthe next four points for a 55-50 difference with 2:25 showing, but was bothered by Virginia's The two teams each hauled down 30 rebounds.

Meier Leads Win
Meier led the winners with 23 points, followed by Surratt with 16 and Jim Kleinschmidt with 13. Graves hit 16 and Snow 13 for the losers, now 12-3. Triopia now stands 12-3.

Virginia controlled the action for the opening four minutes, leading 5-2 and 7-4 before Fricke. Meier and Surratt led a surge the boosted Triopia into a 9-9 tie and 13-9 margin. Greg

Spartans Collect Winchester Title

By DAVE INGLES

WINCHESTER — Top-seeded North Greene proved the experts correct as they used a torrid second period to roll to an easy 84-73 decision over Rushville, here Friday night, to claim the title in the Winchester Invitational Tournament.

By winning, the Spartans added their second Winchester championship trophy in three years to a case that also includes this year's Illinois Valley Conference tournament title cup, and now boast the area's best season record, 14-2.

Carrollton notched third place with a 68-54 margin over host Winchester in Friday's opening game, and in doing so claimed their fifth victory in the last six starts after a disappointing early season slate of one win in eight tries.

The title contest was close for only one quarter as North Greene slipped to a five point spread to finish the frame after playing seasaw with the Rockets. With big center Larry Ball leading the way on two baskets and a pair of free tosses, Rushville eased to an 8-5 lead before North Greene got rolling.

Spartans Break Away

Marty Rhoades knotted it up at 12-all with 2:45 remaining and four buckets by four men sent North Greene out in front 20-15 at the quarter mark.

The Spartans dispelled anticipation of a tight game with a

Ashland In 42-39 Upset Over Athens

ASHLAND — Ashland's slow-down, ball-control offense never relinquished its early lead here Friday night on way to a 42-39 upset win over Athens in Sangamo conference play.

The victory, which ended Athens' nine-game winning streak, lifts Ashland into a tie with Athens for the circuit lead.

Both clubs now stand 3-1. Despite giving away two inches per man in the front line, Ashland managed a 36% to 33% shooting edge over the pressing visitors.

Ashland grabbed 13-9 and 26-22 leads at the first two stops before opening up its biggest lead of the night, eight points, during the late third and early fourth period action. The final three point difference was as close as Athens could come in the closing half.

Carroll Hardy and Jerry Mau topped the balanced Ashland attack with nine-each, while Athens' John Clemens led all scorers with 15.

The win lifted Ashland to a 12-5 slate: Athens is now 14-4.

Last-Second Shot Tips Jacks, 52-50

By BUTCH BENDING

Ron Clay hit a 45-foot desperation shot in the last second of the game to give Quincy a 52-50 victory over JHS in a Hollywood finish for the Blue Devils, at the JHS Bowl Friday evening.

Jacksonville's Duane Hess set up the finish by sinking the second of two free throw attempts with four seconds remaining in the game, to knot the score at 50-50.

The last-second shot was actually set up by a controversial ruling by an official. Quincy took the ball out with :04 showing and the clock ran out before the official signaled the Quincy time-out. The official then directed the official timer to put two seconds back on the clock.

The Crimsons had held a four-point advantage at the end of three quarters of play, but failed to score effectively in the fourth period, giving the Blue Devils their chance.

JHS dominated the boards in the second half, and this was almost enough for the upset minded Crimsons, but their scoring punch faltered in the last quarter. With 52 seconds remaining Quincy's Alan Bush hit a 12-foot jump shot that gave them the lead 50-49, before Hess tied the score with four seconds remaining.

Robin Manker and Abe Brown gave JHS the lead in the third period, scoring all of the Crimsons' points in the period to give them a four point lead, 44-40.

Announce Continued Suspensions

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The University of Illinois announced Friday the continued suspension of four varsity basketball players who allegedly received illegal financial assistance.

Dr. Leslie A. Bryant, acting athletic director and faculty representative, said the four players cannot expect to regain eligibility at least until after the present season.

The four are Ron Dunlap of Chicago, Rich Jones of Memphis, Tenn., and Steve Kuberski and Steve Spanich, both of Moline, Ill.

They and seven unidentified football players were among those who allegedly received assistance from a $21,000 slush fund.

The infractions were reported to the Big Ten by the university last month and the suspensions were announced Dec. 23.

Bryant's statement was issued Friday after Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed had concluded his investigation of the irregularities.

Reed said he has set no definite time for turning in his report to conference athletic directors.

Bryant said "we will do everything we can to assure these young men will continue with their undergraduate education. I have expressed to them the university's and my personal regret that neither the commissioner nor the University of Illinois had any discretion in the application of conference rules once the fact of receipt of unauthorized financial assistance was established.

"Whether the four might be able to regain eligibility in the future depends upon response of the conference to any appeals when they are made after the full report is received. Big Ten procedures make it impossible for any other decision prior to the end of the 1966-67 basketball season."

Foster qualified ninth in Thursday's runs, averaging 105.297 miles an hour for the two laps.

There was no car near his in Friday's smashup.

In the deal, LaRusso, a 6-foot-8 cornerman, was to go to Detroit; 6-foot-9 cornerman Ray Scott was to go to Baltimore; and 7-foot reserve center Mel Counts was to go to Los Angeles.

The Bullets said they still were interested in obtaining Scott and would try to work out a trade to get him.

The Bullets said that they were told that LaRusso, an eight-year veteran in the NBA has been suspended by the Lakers.

LaRusso had said that for personal reasons, he couldn't go to Detroit and announced his retirement from the NBA.

He said his wife is expecting their first child in about two months. In addition, he works for a Los Angeles brokerage firm.

The Bullets said that Counts now reverts to Baltimore, Scott to Detroit and that LaRusso remains suspended.

led the Crimsons' board attack. The Blue Devils' press was not effective against JHS, as the Crimsons lost the ball only twice in the entire game, as a direct result of the Quincy pressing defense.

Bush opened the scoring in the first period with a 15-foot jump shot, but Brown came right back for the Crimsons to knot the score at 2-2, for the first of ten times that the score was tied during the game.

The rest of the quarter saw Mounts and Brown score all of the Crimsons' points, and Bush and Bill Gay accounted for Blue Devil's points except for a free throw by Ken Hultz, as the first period ended 16-16.

Quincy Roars Back
Hultz quickly gave Quincy the lead, hitting on a 14 foot shot with 7:41 remaining in the quarter. Mounts scored for the Crimsons to knot the score at 18-18, and then Coble hit a 10-footer to give JHS the lead 20-18. Coble came right back and stole the ball and scored to widen the Crimson advantage to four points, with 6:53 remaining in the half.

JHS then boasted their lead to five points, as Mounts hit a bucket and a free throw, to give the Crimsons the lead 25-20, with 5:30 remaining in the period.

Bush hit a field goal and a free throw as Quincy closed to within two points with 4:44 remaining, before Gay knotted the score at 27-27 with 4:21 left in the half.

Crimsons Surge To Tie
After Blue Devils built up a four-point margin, Chad Ormiston hit two free throws on a one-and-one, and Brown hit a bucket with three seconds remaining to tie the score at 33-33 at the half.

The Crimsons got hot in the third period on the shooting of Manker and Brown to pull away to four point lead, 44-40, as the Blue Devils got off only five shots in the period.

JHS continued to dominate the game in the early minutes of the fourth period, as Manker, Hess, and Brown all hit baskets to give the Crimsons a five point lead with 4:00 remaining, 49-44.

Quincy then held JHS scoreless until Hess's free throw with four seconds left on the clock, as Bush hit two buckets and a free throw to close the gap to three points, 49-46, with 2:35 left in the game.

Come Within One
Then Bruce Bybee stole the ball and raced the length of the court to make a layup that brought the Blue Devils within one point 49-48.

JHS slowed the play down, but lost the ball to Quincy with 60 seconds left on the clock. Gay then hit a driving layup with 52 seconds remaining to give the Blue Devils the lead, 50-49.

Hess was then fouled, as he tried a layup, and hit one of his two free throws to lock the score at 50-50. With four seconds on the clock Quincy took the ball out and immediately called time out, to set up Clay's shot.

Clay took the ball five feet within the backcourt, and threw the ball through the basket to give Quincy the game.

Brown led the Crimson scorers with 19 points, while his counterpart, Quincy's Bush had 21.

Quincy's victory moved their record to 13-2, while the Crimsons are now 6-7 on the season.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets announced Friday that a three-way trade involving Rudy LaRusso of the Los Angeles Lakers, Roy Scott of Detroit and Mel Counts of the Bullets has been canceled.

The Bullets said the deal could not be completed because the Detroit club of the National Basketball Association had been unable to persuade LaRusso to join it.

A spokesman said the Bullets were informed of LaRusso's refusal to leave Los Angeles by General Manager Edwin A. Coil of the Detroit Pistons.

The Bullets said that Counts now reverts to Baltimore, Scott to Detroit and that LaRusso remains suspended.

Trucker Hurt In Accident At Gravel Pit

MT. STERLING — Charles Campbell, 43-year-old Mt. Sterling trucker, is reported in "serious condition" at Blessing hospital in Quincy with injuries sustained Thursday in an accident at the Callender Gravel pit, near Valley City.

Authorities said Campbell's parked truck slid down an incline and struck him as he stood talking to another driver, Gene Dixon of rural Chambersburg. Campbell was pinned between the two trucks. He received emergency treatment at Illini hospital in Pittsfield and was then transferred to Blessing hospital's intensive care ward.

Orioles' Sweep Voted Top Upset Of Sports Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles' four-game sweep over the Los Angeles Dodgers in the World Series easily rated the sports upset of the year in a nationwide Associated Press poll released Thursday.

The Orioles drew 267 first-place votes and a total of 971 points from sports writers and sportscasters on the basis of three points for first place, two for second and three for third.

Texas Western's victory over Kentucky in the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball final last March was second, far behind with 363 points, including 39 top votes.

Brazil's upset of the United States in Davis Cup zone play attracted 25 first-place votes and 213 points with Bill Casper's comeback to beat Arnold Palmer in the U.S. Open Golf Tournament fourth with 22 top votes and 216 points.

The Orioles, despite a run-away with the American League pennant, rated the underdog against Dodger pitching in the Series. However, Baltimore unveiled some sparkling mound work of its own as reliever Moe Drabowski blanked the Dodgers for the last 6-1-3 innings in the opener and Jim Palmer, Wally Bunker and Dave McNally followed with shutouts that set a World Series mark of 33-1-3 straight innings without a run.

Texas Western, ranked No. 3, conquered top-ranked Kentucky 72-65 in the final and deprived the Wildcats and Adolph Rupp of a fifth national title.

The United States Davis Cup team was the heavy favorite against Brazil in inter-zone play in November, particularly after Dennis Ralston won the first singles and he and Cliff Richey captured the doubles for a 2-1 lead.

But Thomas Koch crushed Richey 6-1, 7-5, 6-1 to tie the score at 2-2 and Jose Adison Mandarino surprised Ralston 4-6, 6-4, 6-1 to give Brazil the best-of-five series.

Casper, trailing by seven strokes in the final round to Palmer, closed with a rush that resulted in a 72-hole tie, and then beat Palmer in a playoff.
